St. Louis Wins Third Game of Series Burleigh Grimes Holds Athletics to Two Lone Hits

Veteran Right-hander of Cards Gives Brilliant Mound Performance in 5-to-2 Victory; Al Simmons's Home Run in Ninth With One on Robs Grimes of Shutout; A's Went Hitless for Seven Innings; "Pepper" Martin Continues Sensational Batting; Cards Lead Two Games to One

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—Burleigh Grimes, veteran right hander, and one of the few remaining spit-ball hurlers in the major leagues, pitched brilliant two-hit ball and drove in two runs to-day as the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, aided gain by "Pepper" Martin's sensational batting, hammered the Athletics to win the third game of the world baseball series from the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 2. The Cards now lead two games to one, with the fourth battle scheduled to-morrow.

Grimes held the mystic sign on the Athletics for seven innings, Miller securing their first hit in the eighth inning. The veteran was in rare form and had his famous "spitter" working to perfection, along with a nice change of pace.

Al Simmons, leading batter in the American League this season, robbed Grimes of a shutout by crashing a home run with McNair, running for catcher, on first. It was Simmons's second homer of the series, the left-hander smashing a circuit blow in the eighth inning.

The Cardinals found no trouble hitting the offerings of Groves, collecting less than twelve safeties off the left hander. Groves was replaced in the eighth inning by a pinch hitter, C. Mahaffey finished the game for the Athletics.

The Cards got to Groves for three hits in a pair of runs in the second inning. Bottomley opened the inning working Groves a walk. On the third and-run play Martin singled over and Bottomley raced to third. Bottomley followed with a single, Bottomley scoring and Martin reaching third. Grimes crossed the plate on Gilbert's hit to Miller in right field.

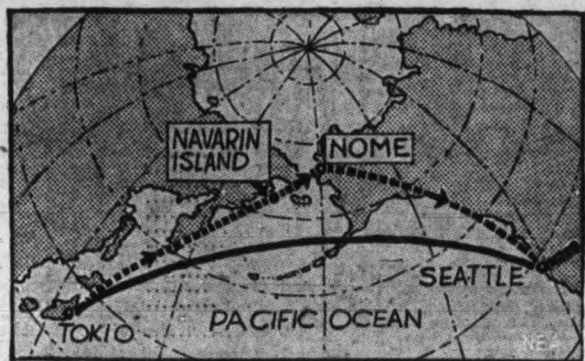

Another batting rally in the fourth of St. Louis two more runs. Starting in the lead-off position, Hafey checked a sharp single into center field. Martin came through with a feinting double against the right hander, for his seventh hit of the series. Hafey reaching third, Grimes through with a timely single to left field, sending Hafey and Martin rying across the plate.

The attendance was 32,295, close to capacity. Grimes, pitching with dogged care, persevered to avenge the two-hit beatings he took from the Athletics in last fully series. Grimes in the last full series, equalling record set by Herb Pennock for Yankees in the world series of 1927.

History Made By Japan-Wenatchee Flight

When Hugh Herndon, above, and his adventuresome companion, Clyde Pangborn, brought their machine down at Wenatchee, Washington, this morning, they achieved fame as the first aviators to make a non-stop north Pacific plane crossing. ## Labor Leaders Hear Green At Vancouver

American Federation of Labor Told By Its President Industry in U.S. Ought to Furnish More Jobs

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Oct. 5.—American Federation of Labor delegates convened to-day demanding private industry in the United States furnish more jobs or pay the penalty of higher taxes.

The fifty-first gathering of the Federation was summoned, President William Green said, to present to the nation practical methods, both temporary and permanent, of relieving unemployment and depression.

His first official duties, after being called to order, were acceptance of welcomes tendered by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Labor and Mines of British Columbia, Hon. R. L. Borden, Minister of Finance, and other officials of the province.

Outlining his views on labor's attitude toward the unemployment situation, Green said: "Americans are all one family, and we must approach the problem in that light. If we consider a family without enough jobs to support all its members, we would not push several of them out in the cold to starve because they had no jobs. Instead, we would divide the work between all the members and let each do something. All would sacrifice, but all would live."

So capital must share the burdens of labor, he said, and help apportion the jobs available. Industry, which benefited by the machine age which increased production but cost many jobs, must aid by maintaining the American wage standard, allowing shorter working hours and through work assurance.

"It must help through keeping up wages and providing jobs, or it must help by paying taxes," he said.

Election Date In Britain Soon To Be Known

Premier MacDonald Has Talk With Lloyd George and Cabinet Discusses Plans

Canadian and Associated Press Cable London, Oct. 5.—Everything awaits definite announcement of a general election in Great Britain. Events are moving rapidly toward the climax. Premier MacDonald went to the Surrey home of Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, veteran leader of the Liberal Party, to-day and had a two-hour talk with Mr. Lloyd George. It was generally accepted the Prime Minister was making a last effort to secure the Liberal leader's agreement to an early general election.

There was no statement after the conversation, Mr. Lloyd George, who is still too ill to come to London and take an active part in developments, had been kept in close touch with the situation by his lieutenants, but the Prime Minister to-day no doubt acquiesced him with the trend of discussion behind the scenes.

Afterward the Prime Minister came back to London for an afternoon meeting of the cabinet.

The Labor Party gathered in conference at Scarborough and tendered an ovation to Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, who succeeded Mr. MacDonald as Parliamentary leader of the Laborites. Mr. Henderson told the gathering that in the absence of a definite date for the election they could only follow the safe policy of being prepared.

Sir John Simon, who broke with his former leader, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, in the early summer, still further widened the breach between his followers and the bulk of the Liberal Party by issuance of a manifesto which said his group in Parliament, claimed to number twenty-four members, was impatient at the attempt to find a common ground on which the government could appeal to the people. He was forming a new organization to support the Prime Minister on any basis, the statement said.

TO START CAMPAIGN
It was understood Sir John would head a new party to be known as the National Liberal Party and would start active campaigning in a few days. In some quarters it was said the Prime Minister would accept the statement.

LABOR URGES CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS

Scarborough, Eng., Oct. 5.—The British Labor Party conference to-day adopted a resolution urging negotiations be opened immediately between the Young Plan signatories and the United States with a view to cancellation of the war debts.

PLATEAU ROAD SURVEY ASKED BY CHAMBER

Urges Government to Ascertain Cost of Road Link From Highway

Need of Definite Tourist Objective on Island Stressed

In a resolution passed by the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to-day the provincial government was asked to make a survey of the route of a road into the Forbidden Plateau, near Courtenay, as soon as possible with a view to securing an estimate of the cost.

About twelve and one-half miles of construction is necessary to open the plateau to motor traffic, it was stated. Proponents of the road declared the Forbidden Plateau would be an objective for tourists with an enormous drawing power. Considerable discussion on the subject took place, and in view of the present economic conditions a proposal to ask for construction of the link as soon as possible was not adopted.

Considering other road matters the board approved the principle of the construction and completion of the road from Spruce Lake to Todino as soon as practicable, and the principle of a direct road connecting Courtenay to the plateau.

BANK OF JAPAN RAISES ITS RATE

Tokio, Oct. 5.—The Bank of Japan to-day raised its discount rate from 5.11 to 5.24 per cent.

INTERNATIONAL CURRENCY NEW SCHEME SUGGESTED

Basel, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—A project to establish an international currency to fight worldwide uneasiness was disclosed in the Swiss press to-day.

The creation of such a currency would be based on a deposit of $1,000,000 in the World Bank by the central banks of the various countries. France would deposit one-third of the amount and the United States the balance under the plan. Certificates would be issued by the World Bank and distributed among the depositors, covered either by 30 per cent or 50 per cent of their gold deposits. They would also draw coverage from money circulating in the various countries.

World Bank quarters were confident the plan would assume concrete form in the near future. This was based on a belief that France and United States would call an international currency conference immediately after Premier Laval's forthcoming visit to Washington.

INVESTORS HERE
SAFE IN FAILURERoyal Financial Corporation's
Victoria Clients to Lose
Nothing, Says Miller

The Royal Financial Corporation Limited, investment bankers and security brokers, doing one of the largest bond businesses in Western Canada, closed its doors here today. The corporation has offices in Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Toronto.

Decline in the price of various bond issues in which the corporation was a heavy trader, because of the world-wide bond market weakness, is given as the reason for the closing.

Under H. W. Miller as Victoria manager, the corporation had built up a large and high-grade investment clientele, many on the savings plan.

At the stone-pillared building at 723 Fort Street customers to-day found the doors closed and this notice posted:

"Notice is hereby given that for the purpose of voluntary liquidation, the doors of this office have been closed to ascertain the exact condition of the company's affairs."

LOCAL OFFICE ALL RIGHT
It was explained by officials of the corporation that the Victoria clients are fully protected and that those who have invested in the corporation will have no difficulty in getting their money eventually.

Mr. Miller this afternoon issued the following statement:

"I am very glad to be able to make the statement that no one in Victoria will suffer at all. Everything in the Victoria office is clear, clean and in good shape so that our clients are all protected and will be paid in full."

"Owing to present conditions it has been found impossible for the Royal Financial Corporation to carry on and for that reason it has been proposed that the company go into voluntary liquidation."

HEAVY INVENTORY
LOSSES BLAMED
Vancouver, Oct. 5.—E. B. McDermid, manager of the Royal Financial, issued the following statement this afternoon:

"It is with regret that we have to announce that the Royal Financial Corporation Limited has been forced to close its doors to-day. The company has gone into voluntary liquidation for the purpose of ascertaining its financial position, also to protect the assets of the company for the creditors."

"The reason the company finds itself financially embarrassed is due to heavy losses sustained in inventory."

"The company has been established for over twenty years and has enjoyed the reputation of being the largest distributors of investment securities in western Canada."

"The company has a paid-up capital of $210,000, and on June 30 last showed a surplus of $25,273. The liabilities are principally to the banks, who are well secured. Outside of this, the unsecured liabilities are in the neighborhood of $60,000, which is anticipated, will be paid in full."

IMPORTS FROM BRITAIN

A statement issued by Mr. King says: "The recent decision of the government of Great Britain to go off the gold standard has been followed by marked changes in our own tariff which have been brought about by order-in-council. These changes have been so bewildering in the rapidity of their occurrence that I feel constrained, before offering comment, to await what would appear to be the final decision of the present Conservative administration."

"But the changes are so serious I feel no time should be lost in drawing the attention of the public to their nature and inevitable consequences."

"On September 28 a memorandum from the Department of Customs and Revenue to collectors of customs announced the value for duty purposes of depreciated currency would be arrived at by computation at the rate of exchange of the current on the date of shipment."

"On September 30 an order-in-council was issued stating that, in computing values for duty of goods imported from Great Britain, the rate of exchange to be fixed at 4.86 2-3 to the pound sterling—a complete change from the memorandum of the previous day."

"By order-in-council that if the Canadian importer paid less than $4.86 2-3 to the pound sterling, then a special duty equal to the difference between the amount payable at the arbitrary value fixed would be levied and collected."

"The result was a startling increase in the tariff rate against goods from Great Britain. It practically wiped out the tariff on a large number of commodities, a class or kind made in Canada. In some cases it even raised the imports above the rate charged under the general tariff. It is clear that these two orders-in-council have raised the duty to a higher rate than has ever prevailed against Great Britain at any period of Canadian history."

NO PRECEDENT
"Exact figures are difficult to state because of the constant fluctuations of the pound and our own equally unstable dollar, but the changes by order-in-council represent a greater variation in Canadian fiscal policy than has ever been adopted by any Canadian Government in the history of the country."

"These changes are so drastic as to appear to be either the result of lack of careful consideration for the elementary interests of the Canadian people or a deliberate attempt on the part of the administration, at the dictation of special interests, to render trade with Great Britain impossible."

INCREASE DIFFICULTIES
"They will unquestionably aggravate the difficulties of the present situation in Great Britain, as well as in Canada, by restricting imports, with a consequent shrinkage of exports at a time when every effort should be directed to measures for lightening the burden. Moreover, the action of the government will suggest to the nations of the world a method of dealing with both Canada and Great Britain which, if generally adopted, would certainly bring disaster to the trade of both countries."

"Once the Canadian people realize the meaning of these changes, they will, I believe, demand their speedy cancellation."

WELCOMED BY GOVERNOR
The fliers were welcomed in the name of the state of Washington. Lieutenant-Governor J. A. Gellat, whose home is here.

"We each owned a little, sitting in his place," Pangborn said. They both took baths at the hotel in preparation for their first sojourn in sleep.

MAJOR MESSAGE
A score of congratulatory telegrams were arriving. One was from a mother of Herndon.

They said they averaged about 174 feet altitude at the way.

Just as the fliers were about to leave the Canadian Hotel were Mrs. Pangborn, his wife and the two young sons. They were very happy and excited.

Pangborn saw his mother for the last time a year ago at Coeur d'Alene when he was on a barnstorming flight with Herndon.

Pangborn was born near here, later lived with his mother at home in St. Mary's.

Capone Jeered At Football Game

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Forty thousand voices gave "Scarface Al" Capone the "Bronx cheer" Saturday in Northwestern University's stadium in Evanston. The gang leader, accompanied by "Machine-gun" Jack McGurn and several other men, supposedly bodyguards, was jeered and hooted by the vast throng attending the Northwestern-Nebraska football game when he arose and departed at the end of the third period. The Capone party walked hurriedly and apparently somewhat abashed to the nearest exit and hastened to escape. Northwestern won, 19 to 7.

London, Oct. 5.—The Prince of Wales is reported to be taking up cycling. His early morning spin around the chateau where he spent his vacation in France kept him so fit it is reported his bicycle is being sent to England for him.

Bodies of Men Killed in Estevan, Sask., Riot Buried at Bientait

Canadian Press

Estevan, Sask., Oct. 5.—In flower-covered caskets, borne shoulder high by eighteen of their comrades and followed by a procession of 600 men, women and children, the bodies of three coal miners yesterday went to their last resting place in a little cemetery half a mile north of Bientait. The men were killed by police bullets in the strike riot in Estevan last Tuesday afternoon.

They were Julian Jryanko, Bientait; Nick Narwan, Taylor, and Pete Markuni, Bientait. Jryanko and Narwan were killed during the fray. Markuni died of wounds in the Weyburn General Hospital early Friday morning.

The brief burial service, contained in the constitution of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada, was the only ceremony of the funeral. It was read in the open air at the graveside. During the simple service banners were held aloft in the crowd reading: "They fought for Bread, But Got Bullets Instead," "Honor to Martyrs for the Workers' Cause," and "Murdered by the Bosses' Hired Police Thugs."

Witnessed by 1,000 Spectators from Estevan swelled the gathering for the funeral to a total of more than 1,000 people. The streets of the little village of Bientait, storm centre of the strike sector, were lined with cars and the sidewalks were crowded with people.

Over the meeting hall in which the bodies of the three men had lain for two days the Ukrainian mourning flag flew in a gentle breeze. No police were in evidence.

Telegraph Briefs

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—Canada retains the gold standard, and it is not proposed to abandon it. This is the statement of Premier Bennett. Persistent rumors that the Dominion proposed to abandon the gold standard were drawn to the attention of the Prime Minister Saturday evening. His answer was emphatic. The government, he said, had not changed the position taken when news of Great Britain's departure from the gold standard was flashed across the ocean.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—Accidents claimed the lives of four Montreal women yesterday. Auto crashes caused the deaths of Mrs. Annie Brazer, fifty-one, and Marceline Fabre, forty-nine. Accidentally taking of poison instead of medicine cost the life of Marie T. Challe, sixty. Mrs. Henriette Hawkey, seventy-eight, died of injuries sustained in a fall.

Olds, Alta., Oct. 5.—David C. Blow, sixty-three, Calgary building contractor, was killed instantly when shot by a companion while duck hunting Saturday near Bearberry, northwest of here. Mr. Blow was accompanied on the hunting trip by his two sons, Harry and Arthur, and Park Oliver, rancher of the Olds District. Police said the shot that caused Mr. Blow's death was accidentally fired by Mr. Oliver. Dr. Hartmann, coroner, decided the death was an accident and no inquest would be necessary.

Vancouver, Oct. 5.—Two men were victimized in Vancouver over the weekend by pickpockets. A. B. Erskine, 1243 Thurlow Street, had his pocket picked while attending a concert in the Orpheum Theatre Sunday afternoon, losing two cheques for $112 and $100, and $20 in cash. Alex. Stirling, 3604 Main Street, while on the street car going north on Main Street Saturday, lost $140 in cash and two cheques, one for $20 and one for $26.

Timmins, Ont., Oct. 5.—Fire which destroyed the Rudolph and McCheesney Lumber Mill on the outskirts of this city over the week-end caused loss estimated at $50,000. The mill, situated on the side of the Metagami River, was razed.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 5.—A cache of partially treated gold, valued at about $4,000, was discovered by four school boys while playing in woods near Sandwich and turned over to the police yesterday. The gold was in small tin containers.

New York, Oct. 5.—Vincent Coll, soft-voiced Bronx gang leader, was identified positively yesterday evening, according to police, as one of the killers in the Harlem baby massacre. Frank Giordano, one of his followers, also was named by a witness to the shooting as one of four men who sprayed death among children playing in 107th Street last August.

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 5.—Although with little hope of finding him alive, provincial police are continuing the search for Pat Noonan, fire ranger, missing from the Pays Platte region, 100 miles east of here, since Monday last. Noonan is believed to have fallen from his canoe as he backed it away from the dock at the Pays Platte forest station.

D. SUTHERLAND DIES AT HOME IN KELOWNA

Kelowna, B.C., Oct. 5.—Daniel W. Sutherland, president of the Kelowna Furniture Company and Kelowna Motors Limited and prominent in civic life here nearly twenty-five years, died at his home at noon yesterday after a long illness. He is survived by a widow, two daughters and a son.

Mr. Sutherland entered civic life shortly after coming to Kelowna more than a quarter of a century ago. He served on the council for twenty-four years, sixteen of which he was mayor by acclamation. He was known in all parts of British Columbia and had a wide circle of friends in the Masonic order, of which he was a prominent member.

His retirement from civic politics came in 1930, when he withdrew from the mayoralty contest in February when his health began to fail him. About six months ago he suffered a stroke, from which he never fully recovered.

In the provincial general election of 1928 he opposed Hon. J. W. Jones, present Minister of Finance, in South Okanagan, and was defeated. He was a Liberal in politics.

MONTERO IS NEW CHILE PRESIDENT

Santiago, Chile, Oct. 5.—Juan Esteban Montero, middle-aged newcomer to politics, succeeded today to the presidency of Chile after an election attended by disorders and marked by at least five deaths.

Montero decisively defeated his radical opponent, Arturo Alessandri, receiving 183,428 votes to Alessandri's 100,000. This was a plurality of approximately 64 per cent. To be elected, a candidate must receive at least 50 per cent of the votes. Two Communist candidates received only 3,785 votes between them.

Official figures showed five persons were killed in yesterday's election disorders, all in Santiago. Unofficial reports said at least ten lost their lives. Sixty persons were injured in the countryside voting and some 800 arrests were made.

President Montero takes up the post vacated by former President Carlos Ibanez, who was overthrown in July and fled to Argentina.

Five Killed By Ontario Vehicles

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Trains, automobiles and street cars took their toll over the week-end in Ontario and helped to swell the violent death list to nine.

W. R. Mackenzie, fifty-five, Orchard Park, died after falling from his bicycle. Ronald Alexander, thirty-two, Peterboro, was fatally scalded when he fell into a tub of boiling water. Mrs. Stephen Autin, sixty-three, Amherstburg, died of gasoline burns.

SIR HENRY THORNTON OPTIMISTIC

"Without being foolishly optimistic, I really think that conditions have started on the upward curve. I think that from now on there will be a steady improvement, with a very noticeable swing towards better times by next spring. There is some consolation in the fact that things can not be much worse, if any, than they are now, and signs are not lacking that they are steadying."—Sir Henry Thornton.

IN THIS FRAME-OF MIND THE PRESIDENT

ident of the Canadian National Railways arrived in Victoria yesterday. It is in striking contrast with the gloomy forebodings to which some people give expression. It is true we may not be able to talk ourselves out of the present economic recession; but if more public men would adopt Sir Henry Thornton's attitude, there would be fewer people in Canada who seem to think that the future holds no hope at all. Sir Henry naturally recognizes that conditions at the present time differ considerably from conditions two years ago. He does not require to go any further than the C.N.R. ledger to be reminded of this. The system over which he presides, however, is in the same boat as its rival, in the same boat as other transportation systems in the United States. There is nothing like as much business as there was two years ago.

One thing should be remembered by the pessimists, and that is that the present state of the world's business is getting more attention than similar dull periods have got in the past because international economic interdependence now is more pronounced than ever it has been before. When business slumps in one country, the effect is quickly felt in other countries. To all intents and purposes the world has become one economic unit. But the advantage of this condition outweighs the disadvantage. It means that the experience through which the world is going is demanding international action, not only action to bring back prosperity, but action to prevent the recurrence of so serious a situation in the future. If it seems, therefore, that times are worse than they were in 1921, for instance, it has been largely occasioned by the world-wide attention that is being paid to them and the numerous remedies suggested for improving them. This is all to the good.

As Sir Henry Thornton points out, "the span of human life is a flash when compared with history; we are not always in a position to obtain a true perspective of things," and "everyone in his own time has thought he had the worst problem to wrestle with." Indeed, Sir Henry thinks the problems which at present look insurmountable to some people, but which will be surmounted, will appear as but trifling to others in another age. This is the right spirit in which to attack our difficulties.

FOREST RESOURCES

IT MAY NOT BE GENERALLY KNOWN that the total forest area of Canada, including the 82,260 square miles of forest on agricultural land, is estimated to be 1,151,454 square miles, and of this about 1,100,000 square miles are essentially forest land which can be utilized to the best advantage under forest. Under present conditions, it is estimated that the forests on 285,574 square miles are inaccessible or unprofitable to operate. With the extension of railways, improvements of waterways, development of new and more efficient methods and equipment for logging, and the ever-increasing demand for wood, the exploitable limits are constantly being extended, and it would be unwise, according to a report recently issued by the Dominion government, to set any definite limitation on the area which will eventually be useable.

On 311,234 square miles the timber is so placed as to be commercially workable and is of sufficient size; and on 554,646 square miles there is accessible young growth which, if protected from fire, will produce merchantable timber. The virgin forest on these lands, as well as on part of the land now carrying merchantable timber, has either been destroyed by fire or cut for use, chiefly the former. There are, therefore, 865,880 square miles of productive forest, of which less than 200,000 square miles are mature, and the remainder is in a growing condition. About 78,257 square miles of forest land in Canada has been set aside in reserves or parks or otherwise permanently dedicated to forest production.

For a considerable portion of the present forest area there is little reliable information, as many regions have not yet been thoroughly explored. The estimated stand of timber of merchantable size—regardless of present accessibility—is approximately 424,637,000,000 feet board measure for saw timber and 1,121,993,000 cords of pulpwood, cordwood and other merchantable products. Of the total for saw timber seventy-five per cent is in British Columbia, eighteen per cent in the eastern provinces and about six per cent in the prairie provinces. About ninety per cent of this is composed of coniferous softwoods, the remaining ten per cent of hardwoods being found chiefly in the eastern provinces. The total for merchantable material of all kinds has been estimated at 224,304 million cubic feet.

A STRANGE POLITICAL UNION

SINCE CONFEDERATION THE PRIZE inconsistency of Canadian politics has been the hybrid mating of economic nationalism and imperialism to produce the policy of the Conservative party.

The development of this strange union is dealt with by R. A. Farquharson, an editor of The Toronto Mail and Empire, in his chapter "Debunking Imperialism" in "Open House," the stimulating volume just published by the Graphic Publishers of Ottawa, presenting the outspoken conclusions of twenty-two of Canada's outstanding writers on the trends and inhibitions of Canadian opinion.

National sentiment, kindled by Confederation, soon turned into a move for tariff protection and Mr. Farquharson points out, it was taken for granted that the Liberals, then in office, would adopt high tariff walls. However, protests from the Maritimes switched the Liberal Premier, Alexander Mackenzie and then "Conservatives, ready to denounce Liberal protection as a disloyal move, switched too; the national policy became the child of Sir John A. MacDonald, and as a result politics in Canada have been scrambled ever since." Mr. Farquharson then goes on to say:

No party has been definitely nationalistic. Liberals, constitutional nationalists since the battle for responsible government, have been fiscal imperialists. Imperialistic Conservatives have been commercially "Canada First."

To that switch of Mackenzie's is due the continual see-sawing in Canadian politics; the persistence of both parties in flaunting their imperial loyalty; the flag-flapping campaigns which have always been imperialistic rather than national.

No Canadian leader since Edward Blake has come out flatly as nationalistic without covering up his nationalism with protestations of imperial enthusiasm. And constantly Canadian platforms have resounded with charges of disloyalty to the empire; but seldom has anyone been accused of disloyalty to Canada.

Every period of depression in Canada, back as far as the rebellion of 1837, has promoted a wave of nationalism, on which the Canada First position has been further advanced. But, according to Mr. Farquharson, in some ways the most striking nationalistic development came with the 1930 depression. Both political parties have been alternately imperialistic and nationalistic in their trend, but it remained for the Conservatives during this last year "to enunciate a militant 'Canada First' policy and bluntly announce to Britain that imperial trade followed the flag only after Canadian interests were amply safeguarded."

They are "amply safeguarded" now to the extent of the imposition of the punitive "dump duties" on Britain's exports because of her falling exchange. This is the meaning of last week's protection move at Ottawa.

GANDHI AND CHAPLIN

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING stories about Gandhi to come from London was the recent revelation that the famous Indian leader had never heard of Charlie Chaplin.

Gandhi is unlike other world leaders in a great many ways; but somehow nothing emphasizes his difference more than this. Is there anywhere else in the civilized world, an informed adult who does not know who Charlie Chaplin is?

Probably not. Yet Gandhi, in some way, seems to have built a successful life despite this lack. The western world holds little that appeals to him. He has already told us that he does not want our machinery or our inventions; now he reveals that he does not care for our amusements either.

A GREAT NEWSPAPER

EIGHTY YEARS OF UNDUPLICATED success in the field of high class journalism on this continent has just been completed by The New York Times. While its achievements measured by the rule of the business office have been almost without rival, it is in the field of careful and exhaustive news-gathering along with urbane and scholarly editorial comment, that The New York Times has realized its greatest degree of achievement.

Of itself it truly said in its anniversary editorial:

To-day, as from the first, it may be fairly set down to the credit of The New York Times that it has faithfully endeavored to report from day to day, with careful accuracy, and fairly and intelligently to interpret, all those passing events of the world which soon become its history. No historian of the past eighty years will be able to find a richer and more trustworthy storehouse of contemporary records than the volumes of The New York Times published since September 18, 1851.

The anniversary of The New York Times was considered of such national importance in the United States that it brought a letter of congratulation from President Hoover, in which he paid tribute to the paper for the space it devotes to national and international affairs as "a great and constructive contribution."

The domestic and foreign standing of The New York Times has established it as a living monument to the spirit of public service and business acumen of Mr. Adolph Ochs who has controlled it for nearly forty years.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SALT IN CANADA
The Quebec Chronicle

Among the natural resources in which this country is abundantly rich is salt, which is found principally in Ontario and Nova Scotia. In 1930 the total production was 271,695 tons, valued at $1,694,631, an average price of $10.50 per ton. In Nova Scotia it is estimated that the Malaga deposit contains 60,000,000 tons of developed salt reserves sufficiently pure to sell directly after mining and crushing. There is also an additional 300,000,000 tons of slightly lower grade salt.

An interesting feature of this deposit is the presence of potassium salts which may ultimately prove of economic importance. Canadian salt industries produce a variety of high grade products suitable for almost every domestic and industrial requirement. Of the total production of salt last year, 49,467 tons were for table and dairy use; 55,372 tons common salt; 44,149 tons common coarse; 281 land salt; 7,688 other grades and 114,787 for chemical works.

CHICAGO'S DILEMMA
The Minneapolis Tribune

Chicago, the nation's largest city, a bankrupt, is not a complimentary picture in a country that prides itself on the acumen of its business leadership. Having spent money with a careless hand, Chicago is now forced to look outside itself for aid. The state and even the federal government are being asked to help Chicago out of its difficulties. Having learned that even the credit of a large city has its limits and that a city can not go on without money indefinitely, Chicago finds itself helpless before a situation which is largely of its own creation. Conservative leadership should have been able to foresee that this end was inevitable as it would be in the case of any city, large or small, that permits unlimited spending beyond revenue by administrations which did little to curb large scale grafting.

A THOUGHT

The words of wise men are heard in quiet more than the cry of him that rattleth among fools.—Ecclesiastes ix 17.

Silence is more eloquent than words.—Carlyle.

Loose Ends

Concerning Mr. Pudbury's automobile—Colonel Blossom's philosophy—and some questionable economics.

By H. B. W.

GEORGE PUDBURY, my distinguished neighbor, loaded his secondhand automobile full of eggs, a brace of chickens and two sacks of potatoes yesterday and delivered them as ordered, to Colonel Blossom, who lives over in Gordon Road. Colonel Blossom, being a gentleman of a school much older than that which is known as the old school, was pleased with the contents of the car, but not with the car itself. Said he to Mr. Pudbury: "Pudbury, you've got no right to have an automobile. No working man has a right to have an automobile! It's an outrage for working men to have automobiles! No wonder the country is going to the dogs, sir!" Mr. Pudbury, however, stood up squarely for his rights as a Britisher should do. Said he to Colonel Blossom: "Say, do you know what they're getting ready for the likes of you, Mr. Colonel Blossom? They're getting the rule-a-lin ready for you, that's what they're getting ready for."

THIS, it seems to me, is important; not mind you, because there is any prospect of Colonel Blossom losing his head on the guillotine (though, heaven knows, he could spare it so far as its intellectual usefulness is concerned). I mean, Mr. Pudbury at heart is a confirmed reactionary, a stout defender of property rights and a veteran of the empire's wars. It is important to us, despite everything that has been done to remove them, in the minds of a few good people like Colonel Blossom. And there are enough such people, it seems to me, to make their views worth considering. Particularly on a day when there doesn't seem anything else to consider.

I HAVE NO doubt that there are many Colonel Blossoms abroad, honest people who imagine that an automobile, in the first place, is a sign of wealth when, on the contrary, it is more often a sign of poverty. But the important thing they overlook is that the more people like Mr. Pudbury operate automobiles the better for everybody, the better for the provincial treasury, for the garage man at the corner and, since the garage man sometimes buys my extra apples, the better for me. The better for Colonel Blossom, who has some of his fortune invested in General Motors. Whereas, if Mr. Pudbury and everybody else like him were to give up their automobiles and put their money into the bank, there would be just that much less in circulation for the benefit of the treasury, the garage man, Colonel Blossom and me. If every working man could afford a car, if every workman had a purchasing power equal to Mr. Pudbury's, we should have boundless prosperity, the garage man would buy my apples and Colonel Blossom's income would increase.

BUT THE IDEA which I am really sneaking up on, dodging for cover from paragraph to paragraph, is something entirely different and has nothing to do with Mr. Pudbury and Colonel Blossom. They are merely dragged in by the heels, poor fellows, to disguise my real purpose. The idea I am sneaking up on, then, is the proposal to reduce civil servants' salaries. It seems to me I have mentioned the civil service in this column before. It seems to me I have said something about the civil service in this small, impotent way. And it seems rather hard, therefore, to receive an anonymous note from a civil servant today asking me why I never do anything for the inarticulate civil service.

WELL, EVERYBODY knows what has happened to the civil service, how it was given free raises during good times and now is asked to take a reduction in bad ones, how a few favored people have been given advances and the rest of the world is asked to wait the new dispensation of truth and justice which was shortly to descend from on high and which is still suspended somewhere in the clouds of politics. We all know that. But there is another angle to the question of civil servants' salaries which is often overlooked by the public. It is the question of the public's own salaries. (Now you see why Colonel Blossom and Mr. Pudbury were dragged in by the heels.) This angle is the public angle. And the cold-blooded interest of the public, it seems to me, is in this question solely: How is a reduction in civil service salaries going to affect me?

ON THESE matters of finance I never trust my own judgment. It is very untrustworthy, as I have good reason to know. So I asked an eminent economist to figure out just how a cut in civil servants' salaries would affect the public. He said that as the government pays about $4,000,000 a year in civil servants' salaries it would save $400,000 a year by reducing them 10 per cent, which he believed would be about a tenth part of the last year's deficit. That would mean, in turn, that while taxes would not be affected in any way (since that is a mere drop in the bucket) $400,000 less would be spent by the civil service in the business of the country, Victoria, of course, being most directly concerned.

BUT, HE SAID, the loss to business would be far more than $400,000 a year, because this money, if spent, would go through many people's hands, it would be spent on food, clothing, automobiles, movies and what-not, and the sellers of food, clothing, automobiles, movies and what-not would spend it in their turn on a thousand other things until nearly everybody, in one way or another, had a bit of it.

Kirk Coal Co. Ltd.

Thus $400,000 in circulation is worth more than millions locked in the bank.

BUT THERE is more to it than that.

If you reduce a man's salary 10 per cent he does not reduce his spending 10 per cent. Unless he is so poor that he must spend every cent to live, he will reduce his spending about 30 per cent. He will become alarmed and spend less on everything. He will put off buying a car or a new overcoat and postpone painting his house. He will put his money in the bank. And this, on a huge scale, is exactly what has happened all over America. Millions of people who could spend have cut their expenses 30 per cent because their income is down 10 per cent. The banks are groaning with accumulated savings which they cannot get rid of and industry has slowed down because it cannot sell its goods. Colonel Blossom, his income cut 25 per cent, is spending 50 per cent less than last year, though he is still wealthy while Mr. Pudbury with the same income as last year, in spending all he makes, as usual. In other words, it is not altogether a financial but very largely a human problem.

NOW, MARK YOU, I am not saying that the government should not economize. To my way of thinking, though I know nothing of such matters, we are spending just about 25 per cent too much in British Columbia, a great deal more than we can afford. Also, we are not paying our way, but are running our debts (current as well as capital) on to our children. I am expressing no opinion on the advisability of cutting salaries, though I fancy I would have an opinion if I were in the civil service. But I think it is useful for the taxpayers to contemplate all sides of this question, to realize what it would save and what it would lose by cutting salaries just as it would lose a substantial purchasing power, most of it in Victoria, but it would save $400,000 a year with a 10 per cent cut—and that is a lot of money. As the 1 per cent income tax is supposed to produce $2,500,000, that saving should mean a reduction in the tax to eighty-four hundredths of 1 per cent. Instead of paying one dollar per hundred you would pay eighty-four cents. That is, assuming (obviously and honestly assuming) that the government did not find some other way of spending the other sixteen cents. I suggest that if salaries are cut, you watch that sixteen cents.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

From The Victoria Daily Times of October 5, 1906

The Empress Hotel, now well advanced in so far as the work is concerned, will within a short time begin to assume a home-like appearance inside. In this connection Mrs. Hayter Reed, who is to be the hotel's first manager, has a free hand in the furnishing of the hotel, and on her recent visit to the city, that she had in contemplation an elaborate scheme for the grill room.

John Cochrane returned from Vancouver yesterday, where he assisted in the semi-annual pharmaceutical examinations.

The by-law providing for a loan for the improvement of the Victoria water-works system was voted down by an overwhelming majority yesterday. Instead of receiving the three-fifths vote in its favor necessary for the adoption of the measure, more disapproved than approved of it.

Wake up, Victoria! What are members of the Victoria Rugby Club doing towards preparing for the ensuing season? It is time something was done, unless it is proposed to allow Victoria to take a back seat in the race for the British Columbia pennant, something that has been allowed to occur too frequently lately.

VIOLONCELLO

To the Editor:—In the editorial columns of The Colonist yesterday a radio announcer of Vancouver was treated to a brief lecture on pronunciation. The editor of The Colonist seems to have evolved his own spelling of the musical instrument under discussion. My dictionary—Webster's—gives it as violoncello, but the morning paper has it violoncello. Does not the Bible say something about first casting the beam out of one's own eye before looking for mote in another's?

THE UNEMPLOYED

To the Editor:—In reference to Mr. Wakefield's letter published on Saturday the second instant, I wish to congratulate him upon the excellent way he placed the case for the unemployed in the city. Press reports that have been published recently regarding the demands of the unemployed have been absolutely inaccurate. The demands of a few irresponsible have been published and those of the more reasonable minded have been ignored. An attitude only tends to breed discontent among the unemployed.

At a meeting of unemployed single men held on the Macdonald Estate on Saturday last, it was unanimously decided to demand $2 per day instead of the now $1.40, on which it is more or less impossible to keep body and soul together and replenish worn-out clothing. In the eyes of reasonable minded people this is a reasonable and fair demand which should be met.

The majority of unemployed men are genuinely and honestly seeking work. We trust in the near future that our demands will be published correctly and unreservedly.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF WORK

To the Editor:—Unemployment relief work as at present operated should be stopped forthwith.

It is apparently giving little satisfaction to the men and still less satisfaction to the ratepayers.

Pending a settlement of the matters which have caused the men to adopt a "go easy" attitude, no more public money should be expended.

Every man capable of earning a full day's work should be given a full day's pay. A dollar's worth of work should be required for every dollar spent.

Men unaccustomed to manual work and incapable of giving service thereof should be absorbed by permitting a resumption of normal trade and commerce. This involves an extension of ordinary credit facilities to industry.

Victoria cannot solve the world problem but it can and should support its local industries sufficiently to provide for its own people.

In spite of bad times there is still a demand for houses. At least one local firm is building houses and selling them successfully. But this firm is adequately financed.

A well conceived building programme on the city's vacant lots financed by local capital would employ hundreds of men at their trades, bring business to stores and factories and absorb non-manual employees at their usual avocations.

It is the duty of civic statesmanship to avoid increase of public debt and consequent increase of taxation. It should appeal to the patriotism of its people to facilitate credit to private trade rather than persist in the attempt to give civic work to all applicants.

My information is that there will be a heavy deficit at the close of the present fiscal year. An increase in rate next year must be avoided on all grounds. But what will be the end of continuing the policy of borrowing to meet current obligations?

SHIPPING HORSES TO FRANCE

To the Editor:—Mr. Robert Spurrier, a well-known humanitarian in England and chairman of the investigation committee, International League Against Shipping of Old Horses for Butchery, has submitted a report regarding a shipment of horses from British Columbia to France. This happened in July last.

A representative of the league and a veterinary surgeon availed the arrival of the boat after its ten-day voyage made investigations. Their report was immediately referred to the Canadian Legation and to French animal protection societies. It is of the most appalling nature.

Most of the horses were wild ones, the load being augmented by aged and worn animals. The wild horses, used to freedom, but trapped and brought into a ship's hold, practically go mad and it is possible that the shipments in future will be only aged and worn-out animals. A sorry ending to their life of service to man.

Horses were tied together for slaughter while killing and dressing were in progress and it was possible for them to view the whole proceedings.

On hearing that horses were being transported from Canada some 700 citizens in Victoria immediately signed a letter addressed to the Prime Minister asking for investigation and improvement of conditions. This I have forwarded through the medium of the Toronto Humane Society, but definite and drastic action must be taken to prevent the recurrence of such horrors as have been recorded to date.

The early passage of a bill in the British House of Commons to prohibit the traffic of old horses to the continent is likely, but we in Canada must solve our own problem.

tenth of 1 per cent and 7 degrees curvature on the Canadian National Railway line to Prince Rupert. It will not matter if wheat can be hauled from Prince George to Prince Rupert for half a cent more on the C.N.R. to Vancouver, as far as freight rates are concerned. The same rate will be fixed to both ports based on the high cost of operating on the P.C.E.

We are strongly opposed to the completion and extension of the P.C.E. from public funds, our contention being, if money for relief purposes is to be spent on railway construction in B.C., then it should be spent on the most feasible line between the Peace country and some point on the C.N. Railway, bearing in mind both construction and operation costs. It is probable the two great Canadian Railways have already agreed on such a route.

The money necessary to complete the P.C.E. and put it in operating condition would be the Canadian National's such an outlet which is the thing desired by the Peace River settlers. Millions may be spent on the P.C.E. and the Peace River farmers will be no better off. In fact, they will be in a worse position for they will always have to face up to heavier freight rates than should prevail, if that line is completed.

Finally, the whole question of a Peace River outlet should be linked with the existing line of the Canadian National Railway, built to the highest standards, and in which the whole country is vitally interested.

It is though that the Canadian public, as a whole, is ignorant of railway conditions in British Columbia, and we believe publicity to be desired, consequently we hope you may see fit to publish this letter.

WARNING TO MOTORISTS

To the Editor:—The Automobile Club of British Columbia desires to issue a warning to motorists and operators of garages and other establishments to make careful inquiries before subscribing for membership in automobile organizations which are represented as being connected with or recognized by the Automobile Club of British Columbia or the American Automobile Association (A.A.A.).

The Automobile Club of British Columbia, with headquarters at Vancouver and branches at Victoria and other centres of the province, has no connection whatsoever with any motor organization in British Columbia, and is the sole representative in British Columbia of the American Automobile Association which is composed of some 1,075 individual automobile clubs with a total membership of over 1,000,000 motorists.

It has come to the knowledge of the officials of the Automobile Club of British Columbia that agents are being solicited motorists for membership in an organization which is represented as an association of motorists, but which actually is a private company, incorporated and operated by a small group of individuals in the city of Vancouver. This company has taken a name which might be mistaken for the American Automobile Association.

A number of motorists who have been induced to subscribe to this private company, have since consulted the Automobile Club with regard to the recognition of this organization, as well as the services which it purport to render. Some of them have been under the impression that the membership in such organization embrace insurance on their cars which is not, in fact, while others understood that the company would be able to obtain a value of which, upon consideration was found to be questionable, and still others, who were apparently unaware that this is a private company, were given to understand that they were joining the Automobile Club of British Columbia. Recently one of the agents of this company was arrested in Kamloops and charged in a Vancouver court under the Insurance Act at fined $200.

The Automobile Club of British Columbia advises motorists to investigate thoroughly the standing of any and all organizations offering membership, order that they may be sure before subscribing that the organization is as represented, and that the company or organization offering them is a position, financially, to carry the out.

JAPAN SHIPS $7,500,000 GOLD

Yokohama, Oct. 5.—Consigned to the United States from the Yokohama Specie Bank, 15,000,000 yen (about $7,500,000) was aboard the steamship Kinal Maru to-day.

This is the first specie shipment made from here since the suspension of the gold standard. In financial circles it was a big day. It was the first of a series of shipments which in the near future will total 70,000,000 yen (about $35,000,000). The shipments are being made to replenish the gold holdings of the Yokohama Specie Bank, which has had unusual increased demand for dollars since Great Britain went off the gold basis.

The cost of the shipment of 15,000,000 yen, including boxing, insurance, freight and everything except interest, amounts to 75,000 yen (about $37,500).

LOCAL WOMEN AT VANCOUVER CLUB BANQUET

Victoria Delegation Entertained By Business Women's Club; Convention Plans

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, including Mrs. E. G. Maynard, Mrs. J. W. Maynard, Mrs. E. H. White, Mrs. Taylor, the Misses M. A. Wigley, Margaret Clay, A. B. Paul, Kate McLaren, Jessie Fraser, O. Snyder, Mable Cameron and Jessie Morrison, returned to the city this morning after attending the annual banquet and "conventionette" of the Vancouver club over the week-end.

Miss Olive Macken, president of the Vancouver Business and Professional Women's Club, presided at Saturday's banquet at the Hotel Georgia at which were welcomed representatives of various B. and P. clubs from Everett, Nanaimo, Bellingham, Victoria and New Westminster, and also from the P. O. Club, a junior organization of the Vancouver group. Mrs. Joseph Stevens was the chief speaker on the subject "People's Best," and a delightful musical programme was given.

Sunday afternoon at the new Stanley Park sports pavilion the club held a conventionette, where members discussed details of the forthcoming B. and P. convention to be held in the city in the summer of 1932. Mrs. Annable Guest acted as chairman and the president, Miss Macken, opened the discussion on the question of the age factor in the employment of business women. Others taking part included Miss Margaret Clay, international delegate from Canada, and Miss Wigley of Victoria.

Miss Josephine Dauphinee is general chairman of the committee in charge of next year's convention, the concluding sessions of which will be held in Victoria.

JUNIORS WILL GIVE CONCERT

Junior Branch of Musical Arts Society Opens Season at Shrine Friday

Many students of music and dramatic art will take advantage of the entertaining programmes to be presented by the junior branch of the Musical Arts Society during the coming season. The opening performance will be held at the Shrine Auditorium Friday evening at 8 o'clock. An item of particular interest will be "The Listeners Speak," on which Miss Sanderson-Mongin will address the gathering.

Talented members of the younger musical generation of the city will assist the speaker. A welcome newcomer to the ranks of the juniors is Miss Gertrude Hicks, whose singing at recent musicales has brought forth many flattering comments. Two festival medallists will be heard in Miss Maquinn Daniels, pianist, and Carl Benn, cellist. Gilbert Margison, popular violinist, will also be heard.

Guest tickets have been issued for the Friday concert, which may be had at Fletcher Bros. or from the executive.

WED QUIETLY AT ST. ANDREW'S

Miss Janet Pearce Becomes
Bride of John B. Speck

A wedding took place quietly on Saturday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church when Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell united in marriage Janet Colton, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Pearce of Oscar Street and Mr. John Basil Speck, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Speck, of Marfield Street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was smartly gowned in a Deja model of dark brown flat crepe, simply fashioned and relieved with touches of henna crepe interspersed into the folds. The yoke was outlined with fagoting. With this costume she wore a smart brown felt hat adorned with a feather mounted in the two shades of brown and henna. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Florence Casady of Vancouver, wearing a costume of navy blue with hat to match and a corsage of pink roses, was the only attendant. The groom was attended by Mr. Charles Fraser.

Immediately after the service, Mr. and Mrs. Speck left on the afternoon boat for Seattle from where they sailed yesterday for San Francisco and Los Angeles. On their return to Victoria they will make their home at the Rosemont Apartments, Linden Avenue.

The groom is a member of the advertising staff of The Daily Colonist and the bride has been a member of the office staff of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, and also an active member of the Hebden Gillespie Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Saanich Couple Wed Recently; To Live In Keating

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening, September 30, at the residence of the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred J. Pimlott, Graham Street, between Edna Grace, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pimlott, Sevenoaks, and George Herbert, second son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Massey of Royal Oak, Rev. J. C. Switzer officiating.

The room was tastefully decorated in pastel shades of blue and white, the bride standing beneath an arch decorated with satin bows and greenery.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of Dutch blue silk crepe, wearing a coronet of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, chrysanthemums and ferns. Her mother of honor was Mrs. Clarence Fleisch, who wore a becoming blue floral georgette gown and carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums and ferns.

The groom was supported by Mr. Charles E. Pimlott, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served, the bride cutting the beautifully decorated wedding cake. Following a short trip to the East Saanich Road, Keating.

Chapter's Halloween Dance—Members of the Major John Hebden Gillespie Chapter I.O.D.E. are busy on arrangements for their annual Halloween dance which is to be staged at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on the evening of Wednesday, October 28. Len Acres' orchestra will be in attendance. Tickets may be obtained from members.

Victoria Ladies' Choir Busy On Concert Plans

The Victoria Ladies' Choir, at a recent joint meeting of the executive and music committees, decided to hold a concert in the Shrine Auditorium on Friday evening, January 15 next. Every effort is being put forth to make this the most successful concert ever given by this organization. The announcement will be made shortly as to who the assisting artists will be.

At a recent rehearsal Madame Scott-Burritt of Hollywood gave a very interesting talk with regard to two of the numbers which will be given at this concert. One of these numbers, a negro spiritual, is used in one of the scenes from a recent Hollywood release, called "Blood."

The scene shows a group of darkies marooned on floating houses, expecting to be washed off any minute, but singing in spite of their dire distress. "I'm So Glad Trouble Don't Last Away."

The other number, "Ye Who the Longing Know," by Tschalkowsky, was originally believed to have been written for a string quartette, so that it makes a beautiful arrangement for women's voices, and is used as the theme and background music in a film based on the life of Edgar Allan Poe, entitled "Leocore."

These two numbers have recently been added to the library of the Victoria Ladies' Choir.

Extra special is the 50c lunch served at the Met Cafe.

Your Baby and Mine

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BABY'S DESIRES SHOULD NOT
GOVERN HOUSEHOLD

The naive belief, that if a measured amount of anything is good for one, an additional amount is much better, leads mothers to make strange errors. A mother's supreme confidence in milk as the child's finest food, inspires her to increase its consumption at a period when solid foods should occupy a place of importance.

The amount of milk is increased unconsciously when the child still takes his milk by bottle, and the more milk he demands and gets, the more indigent he remains to those solid foods which are as essential to his physical development as his supplementary milk. Mrs. L. K.'s baby has reached this indifferent stage.

TAKES NOTHING BUT MILK

"Will you please send me your leaflet telling me how to feed my nine-month-old boy?" asks Mrs. L. K. "He weighs thirty-one pounds and weighs ten and one-half at birth. He is smart for his age. He won't take orange juice, no matter how I give it to him. He won't eat cereals of any kind. He is very hard to feed because he won't eat any of the things that are good for him. All he wants is his bottle of milk. He will drink all I will give him in a bottle, but none in a glass.

"I give only the bottle at night when he is going to sleep, and in the afternoon when he takes a nap. Sometimes he won't take one. Could you tell me something to put in back of his ears? They are always sore and crusty in the creases. It does not seem to bother him."

BABY RULES HOUSEHOLD

Your baby certainly winds you around his finger. What baby won't do seems to be the rule of the household. Of course, you realize that this simply cannot go on. You are feeding the baby. He is not old enough and has not judgment enough to feed himself properly. Your trouble dwindle down to just one item of importance, that bottle. Without it the child would have some interest in solid food. So long as he can have all the milk he wants by bottle, he continues to be an infant in habits as well as diet. Take the bottle away. He can drink from a cup and if he refuses milk, let him refuse it. He will soon be so ravenously hungry that even cereal will look good to him.

USE INGENUITY

Give him his orange in sections and let him eat it that way; it will probably taste more appealing to him. Follow in every particular the diet list I am sending you. Feed him regularly, offer nothing between meals, and give no milk to drink until he has eaten his solid foods. A ripe banana is an excellent substitute for cereal and is often accepted when cereals are refused. Put the food before the child, help him feed himself—though encouraging him to manage part of each meal by himself—and take him away from the table when he indicates that he is through. Catering to his "won'ts" makes it a behavior problem, and if he finds he gets no food except what you put before him, it will not take a "smart" child long to decide what is best for him.

The cracked ears can be treated with some form of salve. Oil the crusts until they fall off naturally, and then apply a zinc ointment or a tar salve. Apply this until the ears are healed and one new careful when you wash behind the ears to dry the creases well, using powder if necessary to absorb any stray bits of moisture.

To-morrow: "Ingenuous Mother Lightens Tasks and Teaches Children Dexterity."

Sea Cadets "At Home"—At the recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Navy League, Mrs. Curtis, the president, addressed the organization expressing her pleasure at again meeting the members and welcomed the visitors and one new member. The letter of resignation from Mrs. Niven was read with regret and Mrs. Sidney Dod was appointed by acclamation to be treasurer in her place. It was voted that a letter of thanks be sent to Mrs. Niven for her untiring efforts on behalf of the auxiliary. Plans were made for an "at home" to be held at Sea Cadet headquarters, Outer Wharf, on October 21. It is hoped that a large number of parents and friends will accept this invitation to view the building and see the class work and drills of the Rainbow Sea Cadets.

Past 60; and Has Never Washed Her Face

Edna Wallace Hopper, Who at Over 60 Has the Charm of a Woman of 25, Tells Why She Advices Women to Shun the Wash Basin

WHEN I first said that I credited much of the fact that, at over 60, people say that I have the skin of a girl of 20 to the total avoidance of having washed my face since childhood, it startled women almost out of their chairs.

I don't believe in cleansing the face with anything but oil. I know other women use this way or that. Ordinary commercial methods of all sorts. Soap and water, for instance. But not me.

I use only a bland oil cleanser in liquid form. I honestly believe that this is one of the chief reasons why I've managed to retain youth as well as I have. Why I am famous for the world over as "The One Woman in the World Who Never Grew Old."

The name of the bland oil cleanser I use instead of soap and water is Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth. The distinguished French beauty scientist who gave me this method told me it was the only safe way for women to cleanse the skin.

Edna Wallace Hopper

That other methods were prone to take out of the skin the precious "oils of youth." Cause the skin to become old looking and lined. You can get Facial Youth at any toilet counter. Full directions come with every bottle. You use instead of soap and water. Watch how it dissolves the make-up, grease and dirt on your skin. Removes every particle. Leaves the skin soft, smooth, clean.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Athletics and Cards Have Only Fair Seasons for Gate Receipts

Washington Plans Changes Next Year After a Fair Season

Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago Sox and Pittsburgh Have Bad Seasons

WITH the final batting averages out it would be a good time to close the ledger on the major league ball teams. The Philadelphia Athletics had a wonderful year on the diamond, but did not do so well at the box office, especially at Shibe Park, their home lot. They have a heavy payroll. Simmons, Cochrane, Grove and Earnshaw are high-salaried performers, and the veterans like Bishop, Dykes, Boley and Miller work for something more than $20 a week. If the world series is drawn out the club may turn in a fair profit for the season. The St. Louis Cardinals had a good year on the diamond and just a fair season in gate receipts. Pulling back the Monday games has helped Sunday double-header fans. The Boston Red Sox, however, has helped. Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh owner, has disappeared of this habit and threatens to block it by vote in council. A unanimous agreement among club owners is required for shifting games in the majors.

The New York Yankees did as well as anyone could expect on the field, and had a fair year financially. Attendance was sparse on many week days, but a dozen big days hauled away of currency into the treasury. Red Ruffing wasn't quite up to his 1930 form on the mound, and Phipps was a big disappointment. That hurt the Yankees as did the surprising slump of Tony Lazzeri. But the team started something of a comeback in the last month or two of the season and may be the Lazzeri of old next year.

The Washington Senators had a fair year, financially and otherwise, but owner Griffith plans some changes for next year, and Manager Walter Johnson is with him in the project. They need another strong hitter somewhere in their infield, and some of the veterans in other departments will be replaced. The Senators batted up with one of the good young pitchers of the season in Fischer.

The Cleveland club was fair; no more than that. Wes Ferrell didn't do quite what was expected of him, but there can be no complaint against a pitcher who wins twenty-one games. His arm bothered him for months. Averhill had a fine year with the bat, and Vosek was one of the star youngsters of the season. The Boston Red Sox profited by Sunday baseball, and Shano Collins had some very good pitching, especially from Danny McFadden. Looking over the Sox improved this season, but the team still needs three or four hitters before it will get anywhere in particular.

Detroit had a bad year on the diamond and a horrible season at the box office. Gehring was on the sick list through half the season, and Alexander was out for weeks. The team slumped down at the start, and Bucky Harris never could hold them up. Bucky spent months experimenting in the outfield and trying to patch holes in the infield. The outlook for next season is none too bright.

The St. Louis Browns had a sorry season and played to plenty of empty seats at home and on the road. They had good pitching from Stewart, Blalock and Coffman, but their batting was sour and their hitting weak. They have good men in Goellin, Ferrell, Melillo and Kress. The others are poor. Owner Ball had better step out and buy, borrow or steal some ball players for next season.

The Chicago White Sox had a frightful year on the field, but strange to say, they did fairly well at the gate. With Yanks as their opponents they set an all-time Chicago attendance record for baseball. Lyons, one of the best pitchers in the league, laid up his arm, and Tommy Thomas had trouble with his arm. The headline of the team was ragged and the hitting feeble.

In the National League the New York Giants were handicapped early in the campaign by poor pitching, and their injuries killed their chances. The pitchers began to go well in mid-season, but Crix went out with a bad arm and Lindstrom went down with a broken bone in his foot. The best part of the Giant year was the playing of Verges at third base, and the recalling of Jim McInnis late in the season and the discovery that he is a fine pitcher.

The Chicago Cubs did well financially, but Hornsby couldn't play regularly, and Hack Wilson, batting star of the previous year, went into a bad slump. Buckle Grinn played the game of his life, and Cuyler did well, but Hartnett slumped in hitting and Root wasn't as effective as usual on the mound.

Some say the Brooklyn Robins were a big disappointment, but perhaps too much was expected of the team. Consider what he had to work with, Wilbert Robinson did about as well as could be asked of a manager. If Vance had been the Vance of old the Robins might have made a real fight of it. Robble had no regular infield and O'Doul was in a hitting slump through the early months.

Pittsburgh went all to pieces in the early part of the campaign, and the club had a bad year financially, but a late rally and the return to form of such players as Traynor and the Warner boys has led to hopes for better things next year. The Phillies had a mediocre year, and poor pitching hampered them on the diamond. The Boston

U.S. Champ Beats Fred Perry After Grueling Struggle

Vines Annexes Fourteenth Singles Crown by 6-3, 21-19, 6-0 Victory Over British Davis Cup Star; Lester Stoeffen and Sidney Take Doubles Crown From Perry and Hughes 6-4, 6-3, 6-3; Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and George Lott Defeat Edith Cross and Hughes in Mixed Doubles

San Francisco, Oct. 5.—The major tennis titles of the Pacific Coast forty-second annual championships remained in the United States yesterday despite determined but futile efforts of British Davis Cup players to take them to England.

In the most spectacular match, Ellsworth Vines, lanky Pasadena star, who has thirteen singles championships to his credit, including the U.S. singles title, annexed his fourteenth title in defeating Frederick Perry, British Davis Cup star, 6-3, 21-19, 6-0.

French Athlete Sets World Mark For a Mile Run

Paris, Oct. 5.—Julius Ladoumague, French middle distance star, yesterday set a new world record for the mile run when he covered the distance in 4 minutes, 9.1 seconds. Ladoumague's performance clipped more than a second from the accepted world record of 4:10.2, set by Paavo Nurmi in 1925.

JOKERS AND DOCKERS WIN FIRST GAMES

Former Defeat Victoria City 2 to 1 As First Division Soccer Season Commences

Esquimalt, Last Year's Champs, Chalk Up 3 to 0 Win Over Victoria West

First Division football teams ushered in the 1931-32 season Saturday with Esquimalt, last year's champions, handling the Victoria West eleven a 3 to 0 blanking at Beacon Hill, while the Jokers scored a 2 to 1 victory over Victoria City at the Royal Athletic Park. The match at the hill drew a large crowd but the Royal Athletic Park fixture was watched by only a handful of spectators.

The West-Esquimalt match produced little goal soccer and the Dockers did not have as decided an edge as the score denoted. In both halves the West had an even share of the play but their forwards displayed miserable form in the goal mouth. In the latter stages of the opening period the greenhorns had at least four golden opportunities to score, but passed them up through the inability of their front-line men to take advantage of their chances. The West's halves and back division played well together, and if their forwards had proved of the same calibre the result might have been vastly different. On the other hand the Esquimalt forwards were the best part of their team and they played the ball well, combined nicely and were always right in the West's goal mouth to take advantage of any chances to score.

About fifteen minutes after the starting whistle Esquimalt obtained a one-goal lead. A free kick was awarded against Borde, West's centre half, and McWilliams took a shot for goal. The ball deflected off one of the West's players to the toe of Mike Wagland, and the Esquimalt inside left picked up the ball and shot it into the goal. The West's halves and back division were the best part of their team and they played the ball well, combined nicely and were always right in the West's goal mouth to take advantage of any chances to score.

STEVENS SCORES

Esquimalt finally broke away and succeeded in notching their second goal when Stevens got his boot to a rebound off one of the West's goal posts and beat Restall with a first-time shot. The West's goalkeeper, leading by the two-goal margin.

Play raged considerably in the second half with the players showing the effects of their hard play in the opening stanza. The West looked dangerous on a couple of occasions when Younan and Wright drove in fast shots, but De Costa was on the job to clear the ball. Esquimalt's final goal came when Frank Tupman, the West's left full-back drove the ball into his own net in attempting to clear a shot from Barnswell.

McKay referred.

The teams follow:

Victoria West—T. Restall, B. Whyte, F. Tupman, K. Thompson, E. Borde, D. Stewart, H. Younan, P. Mulcahy, A. Wright, T. Peers, R. Shanks.

Braves did well financially and in the field until a late slump swept them from fifth to seventh place. The Cincinnati Reds were hopeless.

Vacs Beat Varsity To Take Top Berth

Stonewall Defence and Fine Backfield Brings 13 to 1 Win in Big Four Rugby

Gavin Dirom Plays Well For Students; Meralomas Rally to Defeat Dodekas

Vancouver, Oct. 5.—A stonewall line and a scamping backfield that just could not do anything wrong, gave Vancouver Athletic Club a well-earned 13 to 1 victory over Varsity at Athletic Park Saturday night before more than 1,000 Canadian football enthusiasts who braved the intermittent drizzle to watch the best exhibition this year. V.A.C. and Westminster will play the next game in the series on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

If Vancouver ever had a contender for western and Dominion ball honors, they have it this year in the fast improving club squad. Although the first string and reserve strength in the V.A.C. backfield are about the smoothest set of triple threat backs ever developed on local fields, the line of the clubbers is something to write about. Besides being good linemen, they are powerful plungers, giving rest in intervals to a dashing backfield.

DIROM PLAYS WELL

But for big Gavin Dirom, who made three Varsity first downs while the clubmen were piling up fourteen, the blue and gold would have been badly out of the yardage picture. If the quartette of flashy backs—Shields, Errington, Northey and Cotton, not to speak of the three plunging middles, Gordon, McKenzie and Merritt, did at the close of the game what they did during the play, they did not come far from the mark. Northey at quarter turned in a masterful exhibition, and when he retired, late in the game, he got a big hand for his work.

V.A.C. tried three forward passes, and all went astray, while Varsity got discouraged when their one attempt went wide. The clubmen were called back for seventy yards and Varsity were penalized but ten yards throughout.

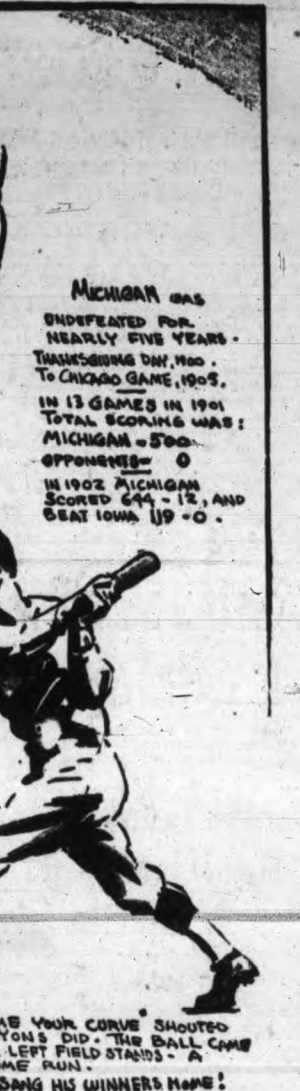

New Westminster, Oct. 5.—Stirling rally in the fourth quarter gave Meralomas victory when all seemed lost in their battle with New Westminster Dodekas at Queen's Park Saturday afternoon. Bob Ellis and Jack Dalby returned a New Westminster kick twenty-five yards to the Dodekas tenard line, then Ellis went over for the touchdown of a cut back after two bucks had netted but three yards. Don Stewart failed to kick goal for the extra point.

GREY BATTLE

Mayor A. Wells Gray kicked off to officials open the New Westminster Canadian rugby season, and from then on till the final whistle, both games put up a stirring battle.

Long runs, bone crushing line plunges, thrilling forward passes and lengthy kicks featured a game which was in doubt till the finish. Rain made the ball greasy and hampered ball carriers, resulting in numerous fumbles, but the teams put up the most interesting battle of the season despite it all. Over a thousand fans braved the rain to watch the game.

Soccer Players and Fans Fight at Mexico City

Mexico City, Oct. 5.—A fight between soccer players of a local team and a club from Madrid spread to the stands yesterday and police were called to restore order.

SMEAD JOLLEY STARS FOR SOX

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Donie Bush's White Sox continued to treat their National League cousins very rudely yesterday, and by hammering four of the Cubs' star hurlers for a 13 to 6 victory, took the lead in the Chicago City series. The American League Sox have won three games to the Bruns' two, and need but one more victory to take the title.

Red Faber and Charley Root, opponents in the opening game of the series, went at it again and again. Faber was the victor. He was not in at the close, Ted Lyons having replaced him, but Root and his successors, Pat Malone and Bob Smith, were unable to halt the Sox in the last innings and they piled up a tremendous lead.

JOLLEY IS HERO

Smead Jolley was the White Sox hero, for in the fifth inning with the American Leaguers behind and the bases full, he lined a home run into the right field stand and the four runs resulting assured the Sox of victory. The 42,000 fans went wild as big Smead ambled around the bases spelling the final of Charley Root.

But Jolley also did the Cub hurling, for he got four hits, one for the circuit in the eighth with two men on base. Cuyler and Hemsley hit home runs for the Cubs but no one was on base either time.

William Grant Is Re-elected Head Of American Ice Loop

Chicago, Oct. 5.—William F. Grant, Kansas City, Saturday was re-elected president and secretary-treasurer of the American Hockey League. Thomas J. Shaughnessy, Chicago, again was named vice-president.

It was indicated the league would operate this season as a five-club circuit with Chicago, Kansas City, Buffalo, St. Louis-Minneapolis and Tulsa.

A plan is being worked out to combine the Minneapolis and St. Louis clubs.

West Bromwich Show Strength To Blank Derby County Team

Albion Demonstrate Right to Head English First Division Football by Decisive Win Saturday; Arsenal Badly Off Form Against Grimsby Town; Phillips Scores Brilliant Goal to Feature Wolverhampton's Win Over Southampton; Glasgow Rangers Take Leadership of Scottish First Division

London, Oct. 5.—West Bromwich Albion, now heading the championship table in English first division soccer, showed how well they deserve this position on Saturday when they defeated Derby County by 4 to 0. Shaw scored in the first minute from a penalty. Glidden and Sanford netted to increase the Albion's lead before the half. W. G. Richardson had the fourth in the eightieth minute of the match.

The games of the Sheffield clubs, on account of their closeness in the averages, were tied-bits on Saturday. The Wednesday snatched victory by the one goal scored. Burgess secured it after nine minutes of play, following some bright work by the Sheffield forwards.

Grimsby Town did the bulk of the attacking in the first half against the Arsenal and Marshall headed in from a corner. Arsenal attacked fiercely in the second half, but could do nothing right. Grimsby won by 3 to 1.

In the second division match, Bury, the pacesetter, were subjected at the outset to pressure from Bradford City, but after this initial burst, which brought them a goal through Mitchell, the City faded away. Edliston equalized and Lindsay put Bury ahead, just before the interval. Edliston made the game safe for Bury by scoring on a centre from Lindsay.

BRILLIANT GOAL

Fifteen thousand saw a sensational beating in the match between Wolverhampton Wanderers and Southampton. The Wolves won by 3 to 1. Phillips took a long pass, and after a dazzling run, crowned his fine individual effort with a brilliant goal for the Wolves. Two minutes later Harill gave the Southampton goalkeeper no chance with a fast rising shot. Buttery goalied for the Wolves and Arnold, Hampshire cricketer, replied.

Southern, in their third division, southern section, match with Clapton Orient, were lucky not to be down at the interval. Shaw scored in the first minute after the cross-over and repeated in the tenth minute. Barnett, Southern, Jack, Orient, and Shanklin scored in the order named in three minutes of hectic play. Fowler got the Orient's second.

FINE DEFENCE PLAY

A flawless defence, which successfully resisted a persistent Barrow attack, helped Lincoln City retain their position at the top of the table. Baldwin, who had to go to outside left. Riley scored for Lincoln after thirty-five minutes of exciting football. The half striking a Barrow back and deceiving the goalkeeper. Following heavy Barrow pressure, Thurby broke away and scored a simple goal after good work by Ball.

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 5.—Rangers went into the lead in the Scottish First Division soccer on Saturday when they won from Cowdenbeath, while Motherwell could only get a draw with Morton. Rangers, who won by 6 to 2, had an easy time with Cowdenbeath.

Morton actually lead Motherwell at half time, but could not hold their lead. Aberdeen and Partick Thistle played a ding-dong first half, but the Dons slowly wore their opponents down, scoring two goals in the second frame. Clyde, twice behind, managed to draw with Ayr United. Dundee United were down at the interval, but finished strongly to defeat third Lanark. Falkirk played in fine form in the second half against Dundee, winning 5 to 2. Morgan scored four goals for the winners.

When the referee disallowed Kilmarnock's third goal, which would have given them a tie against Celtic, the crowd booed during the entire second half. The ball went into the net, but was disallowed because Maxwell handled.

Scorers were:

Aberdeen: Hill, Love, Partick Thistle, nil.

Dundee: Smith, Parr, Mayes, Ayr United: McGilivray, Morris (2).

Dundee United: Brant, Kay, Johnson, Third Lanark: Dwyer (2).

At this very moment, under the surface of Canadian business and economic conditions, many millions of hidden dollars lie buried by uncertainty and over-cautiousness.

Of Canada's ten millions of people nine millions decimal something-very-considerable—are still "on the job", steadily at work, drawing regular wages, or supported by those who are at work.

And spending less than they can well afford to spend.

This reluctance to buy was initiated by want of confidence and born through the "my job may go next" idea. This complex, multiplied by millions, has become a most formidable habit that is now being broken in the slowly gaining fight to reach anew our national prosperity.

This is the time—with gradual improvement evidencing a fuller and more reasonable measure of national confidence—to dig out and put back into useful circulation these hidden hoards of Canadian buying power.

Thornton Behind Railway Commission

C.N.R. Head Would Use Best Brains To Frame Policy

Interests of Canada Would Be Served and Critics Silenced by Appointment of Royal Commission Invested With Power to Investigate Railway Problems, Says Sir Henry Thornton; Thinks Commercial Motor Traffic Should Be Regulated to Stop Unfair Competition

If the best brains of the country are mobilized to examine Canada's railway problems there is no doubt that a satisfactory solution of the difficulties faced in these times of stress will be reached in the interests of all concerned, according to Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways.

Sir Henry reached Victoria yesterday morning and spoke during an interview in support of his proposal for the appointment of a royal commission to investigate railroad operations in this country and frame a constructive policy.

With revenues practically cut in two, Sir Henry stated that the railway situation in Canada was serious. It was time for the country to tighten its belt and take stock, he said. The president of the Canadian National system carefully reviewed the existing railway situation and examined the difficulties now faced by the transportation systems.

To definitely establish his points, Sir Henry traced the railway development of Canada and dealt with the causes responsible for the highly competitive transportation situation today. Confederation had brought into existence the Canadian Pacific Railway, he said, and Confederation could not have survived but for the through rail connection linking the provinces together with a band of steel. The Canadian Pacific, to which Sir Henry paid the tribute of being a most efficiently operated railroad, tapped the southern part of Canada from coast to coast. Finally, the time arrived when the northern section of the country claimed recognition and the Canadian Northern, built by Mackenzie and Mann, merged with the Grand Trunk Pacific, became part of the government-owned Canadian National system.

KEEN COMPETITION
The result was that healthy competition developed between the government-operated lines and the system controlled by private interests. The depression came with a bang and revenues dropped. Then the critics sprang to life and attacked the government-operated road. "Critics thrive best in times of depression," observed Sir Henry. "You never hear from them when times are prosperous. I suggested to the government that a commission be appointed to go into the whole railway situation, delve into every phase of the transportation business and submit recommendations of policy that would be in the best interests of the country."

"It is impossible for me to say just what policy might be evolved by such a commission," he exclaimed when it was suggested that the findings of the commission might favor consolidation of the Canadian rail systems.

SECOND GREATEST INDUSTRY
Canada's problems, particularly those affecting transportation, were linked to some extent with those confronting the United States, he continued. "Con-

HERE WITH PRESIDENT

COL. T. A. HIAM

Personal representative of Sir Henry Thornton on the Pacific Coast, with headquarters at Vancouver, who was in the city today with the Canadian National party.

solidations are taking place over there in a country of 120,000,000 people whose interests are similar to those of Canada and of this fact we must take cognizance. Canada annually benefits to the extent of $300,000,000 by the tourist industry. It is this country's second largest industry, only exceeded by agricultural products. This all goes to prove that in dealing with internal problems we have to look beyond our own borders. We cannot afford to ignore the trend of transportation in the United States."

TRUCK REGULATION
Regulation of commercial motor traffic to prevent unfair competition would in all probability come within the scope of a railway commission in the event of such a group being authorized by the government, it was indicated by Sir Henry. He did not see why commercial trucks should be allowed to cut up the highways of the country without contributing more to the maintenance of the roads. Under conditions as they existed to-day private cars were being forced off the road by cumbersome and heavily-laden trucks. The question of axle load needed investigation. Motor routes should be regulated in order to avoid direct competition with the railways.

Control of rates and fares, Sir Henry suggested, should be vested with provincial governments in the provinces and with the federal government in connection with Dominion highway traffic. Drivers of commercial cars should be compelled to undergo eye-sight, hearing and health tests, as in the case with railroad engineers.

This would cover one phase of the transportation business, and a very important one, which would have to be considered by the commission, it was intimated. "We are not afraid of fair competition, but unfair competition must be eliminated if the railways are to be given a fighting chance," the Canadian National president observed. "It would appear certain, should the suggested railway commission be appointed, that more stringent control of commercial motor traffic on public highways would be urged in the final recommendations as the automobile is the most dangerous rival of the railways, both in passenger and freight traffic."

SEES IMPROVEMENT
"When do you think the world is going to snap out of this depression and how?" Sir Henry was asked. "Frankly, I do not know, and I don't believe anyone else does," was the reply. "If anyone did they could easily become millionaires. This depression, which is worldwide, has reached a point where it cannot get much worse—and as things cannot remain stationary—the time cannot be far distant when conditions must improve." "I believe that by the time the spring comes round—when the birds begin to sing again—there will be evidence of renewed confidence and better times."

The world to-day may be compared to a sick person who has passed the danger stage and has made the turn towards convalescence and complete recovery. "Canada is rich in natural resources and its resourceful people have overcome greater obstacles than those with which they are grappling to-day," he concluded.

HAD BUSY DAY
Sir Henry spent a very busy day in his suite at the hotel yesterday, going through a mass of correspondence with his secretary, giving interviews and meeting delegations. In the evening the railway president dined with Premier Tomin and met other members of the government. He met further delegations this morning. George L. Warren, publicity commissioner and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was among the first to greet Sir Henry following his arrival here.

The president is accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. James W. Thornton, his son and daughter-in-law, Col. T. A. Hiam, personal representative on the Pacific Coast; Walter S. Thompson, chief of the C.N.R. publicity department; Dr. J. McCombe of Montreal, and W. H. Hobbs, secretary, and Bruce Borchman, publicity representative, Vancouver. The party left by the afternoon boat to-day for Vancouver en route east.

May Co-operate With C.P.R. In Effort To Give Best Service

Sir Henry Thornton Corrects Impression That Canadian National Tri-city Steamer Service Had Been Abandoned; Boats Must Be Operated on Paying Routes; Harbor Works Inspected by C.N.R. Party While in City

There has been no suggestion of abandoning the tri-city steamer service of the Canadian National Steamships Ltd., it was stated yesterday by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways. "We have suspended the service because the season is over and business during the winter is not sufficient in volume to warrant a continuance of the service," said Sir Henry.

"I am not prepared to state what may happen next season on the tri-city route. It is possible that some sort of an agreement will have to be reached with the B.C. Coast Service of the Canadian Pacific Railway."

BOATS MUST PAY
The Canadian National, he said, would not doubt be ready to operate boats on the route next season, providing the tourist business developed to such proportions that it would be a paying venture. He doubted whether the boats would be run again on a route where they did not pay.

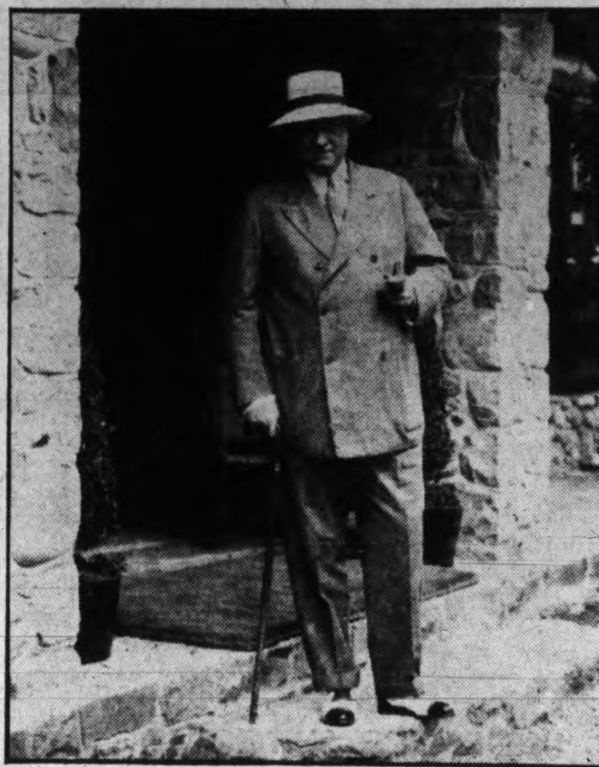

The Ss. Prince David is again ready for commissioning, after being repaired at Vancouver, following her stranding off Point Wilson.

The Ss. Prince Henry will leave on November 22 on an intercoastal cruise and will be operated during the winter out of Boston to Bermuda, British West Indies, between which points there is an increasing travel movement. It is possible that a second cruise to the Atlantic may be made by one of the Prince boats during the winter. One of the company's steamers, probably the Prince Robert, will be retained on the coast for the Alaska trade.

VISITED DOCKS
While here to-day, Sir Henry looked over the Canadian National Docks both in the Inner Harbor and at Ogden Point, and inspected the inter-switching scheme between Point Milne and the E. and N. tracks.

During the forenoon the C.N.R. president called upon Lieutenant-Governor Johnson at Government House and Mayor Anson at the City Hall. He also visited the local passenger offices of the Canadian National.

C.N.R. CHIEF VISITOR IN CITY

SIR HENRY THORNTON

"Sorry I am not able to stay longer," said the railway magnate, who left by the afternoon boat to-day for Vancouver after thirty hours in Victoria. "I had hoped to stay on the Island for some time to get better acquainted. I have pledged myself to do this and expect to make a longer visit at some future date."

Dance Is Held At Fulford Harbor

Ganges, Oct. 5.—A big crowd attended the dance given by the Salt Spring Island platoon of the 16th Canadian Scottish in the Institute Hall at Fulford Harbor, October 2. The hall was decorated with flags and evergreens and a four-piece orchestra from Victoria supplied the music to which more than 130 people enjoyed dancing until 2 a.m.

About fifty attended from Ganges. Supper was catered for by Mr. and Mrs. F. Stevens and useful prizes were awarded to the holders of the lucky tickets.

A special launch brought a number of visitors from Swartz Bay, several also coming over from Sidney. The proceeds of the dance will be devoted to the canteen fund of the platoon.

LOCAL DENTIST IS WINNER IN KODAK CONTEST

Dr. V. F. Smith Awarded $250 For Best Class Snapshot in All Canada

R. C. W. Lett, Vancouver, Wins $1,000 Grand Prize; Other Victorians Win

For the best snapshot taken in Canada in the class for birds, animals and pets, Dr. V. F. Smith, Victoria dentist, wins a $250 cheque. It was announced this morning by F. A. Hargrave, Vancouver, British Columbia, representative of the Canadian Kodak Co. Limited, which sponsored the contest. A $50 third prize in the same class was awarded W. T. Thorne, 1310 Douglas Street, while a similar amount for third in snapshots of children went to Mrs. M. Porter, 985 Wilmer Street.

Of the $7,500 Canadian prize money, over $2,000 came to British Columbia, including the $1,000 grand prize for which the "B.C. Products Week" campaign was handled. In all the six classes, which was won by R. C. W. Lett, 1562 Fortieth Avenue West, Vancouver. These snapshots were entered in the Canadian district contest of the $100,000 Kodak International. All the important countries of the world had their separate competitions, and class winners in each country are entitled to compete in the international event at Geneva, which is to take place shortly. At Geneva $10,000 will be given for a class award and $10,000 for the International Grand Award, and both Dr. Smith and Mr. Lett are eligible.

Another British Columbia man who is eligible is W. Lawrence, Vancouver, who won $250 first money in the class for scenes.

Dr. Smith's prize-winning snapshot was taken during a summer holiday in the vicinity of Duncan two months ago. The photograph shows a grey horse being driven by a man in a blue coat. The outstanding quality of the picture is that the head of each horse is in exact line, they are all drawn in water and they all have the same expression. It is a snapshot that had to be taken on the moment, for delay of even a second might have spoiled the symmetrical formation of the horses' heads.

The camera used, according to Dr. Smith, was a fifteen-year-old Kodak. He thought so little of his work that he did not develop it till over a month later. Dr. Smith had never entered a photograph contest before and it was the man who developed it who persuaded him to enter the Kodak contest.

Mr. Thorne's third prize-winner in the same class was a sea-ful in the very act of alighting on the deck of a steamer to pick up a piece of food. Mrs. Porter's photograph was of a small child sitting on the edge of a quilted brook, dangling her right foot in the six classes of the Canadian contest, which was strictly amateur. Were judged by the following: Rev. Canon H. C. Coyle, divine; Emily R. Murphy (Jany Canuck), author and anglist; E. W. Grier, P.R.C.A., artist; L. M. Montgomery Macdonald, author; Nellie McChung, author, and Lieut.-Col. Henri Gagnon, Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur.

Full Canadian results follow:

Class A—Children. First prize, $250, Miss Cory Taylor, 522 Camden Place, Winnipeg, Man.; second prize, $100, Mrs. Jean Charles, 200 Barclay St., N.D.G., Montreal, Que.; third prize, $50, M. Porter, 985 Wilmer Street, Victoria, B.C.

Class B—Scenes. First prize, $250, W. Lawrence, 1400 Eighth Avenue West, Vancouver, B.C.; second prize, $100, Mrs. R. O. Bethune, Berwick, N.S.; third prize, $50, Dr. Paul C. Dupuis, 1 Rue de l'Eglise, Montmagny, Que.

Class C—Game sports, pastimes and occupations. First prize, $250, R. C. W. Lett, 1562 Fortieth Avenue West, Vancouver, B.C., also $1,000 grand prize; second prize, $100, W. L. Merlie, 610 Fourteenth Avenue E., Vancouver, B.C.; third prize, $50, Dan McCowan, 318 Marten Street, Banff, Alta.

Class D—Still life and nature subjects, architecture and architectural detail and interiors. First prize, $250, B. Whitlaw, 200 Craighurst Avenue, Toronto, Ont.; second prize, $100, Philip J. Croft, 1005 Canora Road, Mt. Royal, Que.; third prize, $50, Gwyneth L. Harrison, 3218 Westmont Blvd., Montreal, Que.

CONSERVATION OF SPORTING FISH IS ADVOCATED

Chamber Committee to Seek Restoration of Supply on Island

Appointment of a permanent committee to seek the restoration of game sporting fish in the Pacific Islands was decided upon by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors to-day.

A resolution was passed urging the Dominion and provincial governments to make immediate provision for restoration of a good supply of sporting fish owing to the fact that the waters were being seriously depleted.

David Leeming pointed out that the matter was one for deep consideration and proposed the formation of a committee to keep it in view and press for action. This proposal was adopted.

COIN TABLE CASE IS SENT UP TO HIGHER COURT

Allan Fielding, charged with inducing a person to hazard ten cents on a coin table at the Willows fair grounds, was committed for trial by Magistrate George Jay in Oak Bay Police Court this morning.

No further evidence in the case was given and the defence testimony was reserved. The formal commitment was then made.

Stuart Henderson is acting for the defence and R. C. Lowe for the prosecution, which is laid by Clarence Harris.

INTERESTED IN PROBLEMS OF SMALL MINER

H. M. Wolfin, U.S. Bureau of Mines Engineer, Finds Government Work Similar

Hugh M. Wolfin, supervising engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines, is in Victoria to-day from Salt Lake City, Utah.

Seen by the press this morning, Mr. Wolfin stated that his present tour covered investigation of the problems of smaller mine owners and operators, from the prospector stage to the $100,000 producer.

To-day he visited John Galloway Provincial Mineralogist, and Robert Dunn, Deputy Minister of Mines, at the Parliament Buildings. He found that the B.C. Government was doing all in its power to assist the small mining operator, particularly in the construction of roads and trails to promising properties, favorably reported upon by government engineers.

The chief minerals of Utah were gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc, all mined in the vicinity of Salt Lake City, he said.

He is interested in metalliferous problems, particularly in respect to lead and zinc, with their gold and silical treatment of ores.

Mr. Wolfin came to Victoria from Salt Lake City by way of Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington. On his return he will call on B. C. Miner, one of the chief mining centres of the United States.

LOCAL PLANE TOTAL WRECK IN INTERIOR

Low-winged Barling Hits Trees at Douglas Lake; Miraculous Escapes

The red, low-winged Barling monoplane which has its headquarters at the Lansdowne Field airport for the last few months is a total wreck in the result of a smash-up in the interior of B.C. according to information received this afternoon. The plane, which was piloted here by Capt. T. E. Snelgrove, was flown to Vernon last week by Pilot R. P. Spilbury of Vancouver, where it was to be put into commercial aviation work.

According to reports received to-day, Spilbury was taking off in a field near Douglas Lake, Nicola Valley. The field was surrounded by hills and as the plane was clearing the hills a high wind suddenly caught it and caused it to zoom on to some trees. A wing broke off while the plane was still in flight, the engine fell into the water and the wing then cracked into bits. The plane crashed and was a mechanical Gordon Bulger, miraculously escaped injury.

RIDING TRAILS ARE PROPOSED

Development of riding trails in the vicinity of the city as part of the unemployment relief scheme was endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce directors to-day.

R. H. B. Ker outlined the plan and as a result of his motion it was decided to name a committee of three to co-operate with a group from the Real Estate Board in securing the trails.

Most of the trails would be in Oak Bay and Saanich and would cost from $2,000 to $2,500.

Reeve Hayward of Oak Bay pointed out the Oak Bay Council had agreed to construct a section of the trails if the remainder were completed.

TWO LAWYERS GIVEN WELCOME

Mr. Justice Murphy this morning in Supreme Court Chambers officiated at the admission of two new members to the bar of British Columbia. Meredith Milner McFarlane, Vancouver, was called as a barrister and admitted as a solicitor, and William Linden Bell, Creston, was admitted as a solicitor.

The candidates were presented by Lindsey Crease, K.C., and were briefly addressed by His Lordship.

FRASER VALLEY RANCHER PUTS END TO LIFE

Canadian Press

Abbotsford, B.C., Oct. 5.—John George Copping, fifty-nine, a resident of the Fraser Valley for twenty-five years, was found dead Sunday morning by his brother, David, on a ranch shared jointly by them. A bullet had pierced his head. By the side of the body was a rifle.

The brothers had breakfasted, and David sat down in the kitchen to read a newspaper, while John stepped into the front room. A few minutes later David heard a shot, and on investigating, found his brother dying.

Nearly a year ago Mr. Copping had suffered a stroke, but his friends believed he had practically recovered from it.

CONFIDENCE REQUIRED TO FIGHT SLUMP

Dr. W. G. Alexander: Gives Gyros His Ideas on Solving World Depression

Old Stage Coach in Form of Buses Now Fighting Back at Railroads

By showing the utmost confidence in business, saving consistently and doing their best in the occupations in which they were engaged people could bring the world out of its present depression, Dr. W. G. Alexander, character analyst, told members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

He ridiculed the attitude of those who still looked upon Germany as the martyred nation of the war, bled white and unable to pay its debts. Germany was, he said, in a better financial position to-day than any other country in Europe.

Depressions were common enough in history he told his hearers.

"A hundred years ago Europe was in a far worse condition than it is to-day, recovering, as it was, from fighting Napoleon," he said.

The railroad had proved the instrument which solved the problems of that day as far as industrial conditions were concerned, he stated. Similarly advanced machinery, which many described as the cause of unemployment, would prove the salvation of the world at present.

WORK OF "IRON HORSE"

Dr. Alexander sketched briefly the invention of the railway by George Stephenson. The achievement of his "iron horse," ridiculed by many when he announced his discoveries, had paved the way for the rebuilding and development of industry in Great Britain.

Depressions had followed all war, he continued, referring to the evil times that had come after the Crimean War and the civil war in the United States. They had been followed by periods of inflation which had swung back into times of depression.

After these great conflicts, nations had gone ahead with confidence, borrowing money where necessary.

The loans had to be paid off finally by the savings of the nations.

BUS LINES FURTHER PROBLEM

Dr. Alexander saw further cause for the present depression in the revival of the stage coach, in the form of bus lines. They were embarrassing the railroads, formerly looked upon as sound investments. Now the railroads had their backs to the wall and were no longer considered impregnable securities.

The world had to look to the airplane in future for its transportation, he remarked.

The gold basis, metallism and bi-metallism would always fail, Dr. Alexander said. Confidence was the only sound basis on which to build business.

He repeated the theories of Socialism and Communism, stating that their precepts had proved incorrect. Wherever they had been tried, the result was the same. The Capitalism would lead to the centralization of industry in the hands of a few, the automobile industry disclosed that this had not occurred, he declared. To illustrate, he pointed to the fact that while Henry Ford held all the stock in his company, those at the head of other firms had little more than 3 per cent of the stocks.

In a closing he said if everyone did his best in his particular field of endeavor and gave out as much work as possible, the world would become a finer and nobler place than it had ever been.

Ship From Churchill Has Reached London

Captain of Ss. Farnworth Reports Fine Sixteen-day Trip Over New Route; Little Ice and Wireless Proved of Great Assistance; Many People Visit Freighter at Victoria Docks

London, Oct. 5.—Captain Mout had an air of quiet satisfaction about him when he was encountered on the bridge of the steamer Farnworth to-day. The Farnworth arrived in London docks yesterday at the conclusion of a history-making voyage of sixteen days seaport on the shore of Hudson's Bay, bringing a cargo of 277,000 bushels of grain over the new Hudson's Bay northern route which cuts 1,000 miles off the journey from the Canadian prairies to Britain.

In the captain's view it was a most after-of fact achievement to navigate from Churchill through the Hudson Straits. The spare-looking skipper said that he was surprised to find the voyage simply because it had been like so many others he had made. "Oh, there was no ice at all to bother anyone," he told the Canadian press.

"Was there any fog?" "Well, we will call it a haze, but it was nothing to worry over," the captain replied. "In fact I was surprised to find how easy things were. Everything possible had been done for us in advance and the wireless gave us wonderful assistance. Without it we likely have encountered some difficulties."

"Churchill is already well fitted with what ships like this need," Captain Mout said. "The berthing is capital and the fuel is abundant. I see no reason whatever why the port should not be an excellent business proposition. Of course this will be my only trip on the route in the present season." Another steamer is now outward bound from Churchill with another cargo of grain, to an undisclosed destination.

A large company of people interested in the great Canadian enterprise made a journey to Victoria docks to-day to congratulate the skipper and express their good wishes to Canada.

Inbound from the Philippine Islands, China and Japan. She will dock at the Rithet pier about 8 o'clock, and will leave passengers and cargo before proceeding to Seattle. She is bringing in a good list of passengers and an average cargo.

The Canadian National freighter Canadiana is now in the Panama Canal zone on her way to Victoria and Vancouver from Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers. She is expected on October 15 or 16 with general cargo discharge at this port.

Repairs will be completed to the Norwegian motorship Bonnevill, now in drydock at Esquimalt, in another week. Workmen from Yarrow's Limited are doing the repairs. The C.P.R. steamer Princess Norah is now lying alongside Yarrow's outfitting wharf following her recent overhaul and repairs. She will sail to Alaska on October 20.

Starting the week's lumber movement, the Japanese freighter Akagisan Maru docked at the Rithet pier this morning at 7 o'clock from Vancouver. Workmen are loading 600,000 feet of lumber aboard, and it is expected the ship will be ready to sail direct to the Orient tomorrow evening. On Wednesday the Swedish freighter Tolken is expected to load 400,000 feet of lumber for Australia, on Thursday or Friday the freighter Golden Coast will be here to take 400,000 feet, also for Australia, and the latter part of the week the freighter West Cusseta is due to discharge corn. After that, the ship will return for a lumber cargo. King Brothers, local shipping agents, will handle all these ships.

Bound across the North Pacific for Victoria and Vancouver, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia sailed from Yokohama on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, according to schedules on file in Victoria. She is expected at this port first thing Monday morning, October 14, with a fair list of passengers and a general cargo.

Approximately 360,000 boxes or more than seventy standard carloads of apples will be lifted in Seattle by five steamers, according to word received here this evening. Four of the vessels are bound for the United Kingdom and the continent, and one to South America. About 100,000 boxes of the South American cargo will be for Rio de Janeiro, Santos and Buenos Aires.

Thursday afternoon or first thing Friday morning will see the arrival here of the Canadian-Australasian motor liner Aorangi from Sydney. She left Honolulu last Friday, and with good weather will probably be along about Thursday evening.

On her second trip here of the present schedule, the Pacific Steamship Company's liner Dorothy Alexander will dock at the Rithet pier this evening about 10 o'clock from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco. After leaving passengers and cargo here she will proceed to Seattle about midnight. The Dorothy will be here again Wednesday evening on her way to California ports.

Outbound to ports in Japan, China and the Philippine Islands, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan will sail from the Rithet pier here Saturday evening at 6 o'clock for the Orient with more than 700 passengers aboard. She will cross the Pacific by way of Honolulu.

The freighter Bronxville is to-day at the Ogden Point pier loading lumber. She arrived from Vancouver early yesterday morning and expects to clear about 6 o'clock this evening for Chemainus to finish loading. McTavish Brothers are looking after the ship during her stay here.

EMPRESS OF FRANCE WILL BELAID UP

Capt. James Gillies Talks of Transatlantic Travel Upon Arrival in England

London, Oct. 5.—Capt. James Gillies, C.B.E., has arrived aboard the Empress of France, which he says is "paying her way" in the cross-Atlantic passenger service. A fortnight ago Capt. Gillies was on Vancouver Island. He stayed in Montreal only one day en route to England.

Capt. Gillies is greatly pleased with the performance of the Empress of France, and denied her heavy passenger loadings had in any respect effected a decrease in those of other vessels in the fleet. He did admit, however, that the volume of transatlantic travel had declined as a result of less money now being available for this purpose, and several ships that were relatively costly to operate had to be laid up.

These included the Empress of France, for which he did not expect to find employment till next summer, the Metagama, the Melita and the Minnedosa. In withdrawing these vessels from regular service, Capt. Gillies indicated that the two remaining Empresses (Britain and Australia), the four Duchesses (Athol, Bedford, Richmond and York), and the three Monts (Montclair, Montclair and Montrose), would continue to provide a thoroughly efficient and adequate transatlantic service. The Empress of France has always been a popular vessel, having been launched in 1913 from the yards of William Beardmore & Company Limited, on the Clyde, and named Albatross. So beautifully was this liner built that Beardmore was popularly supposed to have lost $400,000 over the contract. With her sister ship, the Calgarian, the Albatross maintained a very successful service to the St. Lawrence until the outbreak of the war.

Heart of Liane

by MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XII

Liane walked without knowing where her feet carried her. She was jostled in the crowd. She had a sudden desire for refuge and summoned a taxi. The driver thought she was ill, her face was so white. She gave him the address of the Bleekman and stumbled into the cab.

Unfolding the paper she looked again at the dead words. The newspaper story smote her like a blow.

"Mr. James Van Dusen Robard of East 62nd Street was fatally injured early to-day when the automobile in which she was riding skidded and struck a tree on the Jericho Turnpike near Willow Stream, Long Island. Mr. Robard was returning from a farewell dinner given in his honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Waite of Willow Stream. Policemen who reached the scene of the accident shortly after the crash say the death car must have swerved to avoid a smaller car, driven by Pietro Lombardo of Merrick, a truck gardener. Lombardo was dazed and could make no statement."

There was more. Van's clubs, his diplomatic appointment, the name of his college. Words, words, words. Liane felt herself suffocating under the weight of them.

She was bowed down by the pity of it, the waste. Yesterday he had been debonair and smiling; to-day he lay broken, voiceless. She stifled the moan that rose to her lips. The taxi driver looked at her curiously as she alighted, and fumbled in her bag for change. There was none. She thrust a bill toward him and fled.

She never knew how she reached her rooms. She found herself on the couch, face down, shaken by tearless sobs.

After an hour she felt a hand on her shoulder. She opened her eyes. Clive stood over her, his face a mask of pity. "I'm sorry," he said.

He brought hot tea and made her drink it. She looked with wonder at the lighted lamp. "Twilight had fallen. She remembered and moaned again. Clive propped her up with pillows. He talked to her in a low voice. She looked at him with great brilliant eyes. "Mother told me to-day," she said.

He did not comprehend. Painfully she explained. "She told me who my father was. She thought Van was her half brother. Somehow she never had learned he'd been adopted."

Clive held her hands, stroking them as though she had been a child. "Don't talk about it unless you'd rather," he said.

"I must. I need to talk. It hurts here," she touched her breast. "All right then."

"She said, 'I must tell you. When I left here this morning I had made up my mind. I was going to leave with Van. I felt I couldn't endure it here.'"

"He frowned. 'That's all over now. Forget it.'"

"No, it isn't. It was just as wicked as if I'd done it. I was bad, clean through. The nurse at the convent used to tell that the sin itself, I couldn't see anything in life for me but Van. It didn't seem to make any difference that I was married to you. I tried to forget that."

"Let's not discuss it now. Later." But she persisted. "I was punished for my sin. I can see that now. God punished me by killing Van." Horror shone in her eyes. "I'm responsible for his death. I—I— Her voice broke on a note of hysteria.

Firmly Clive said, "This is all the sheerest nonsense. You're torturing yourself without reason. Van drove his own car—they'd been drinking and the car skidded. It's a bad curve. How could you be responsible for that?"

"I am—I am!" He said, "I'm going to give you a sleeping draught. You'll be ill." He mixed it for her. She drank unprotestingly. Long after she slept he sat with his head in his hands.

In the morning she was quieter but the look of terror lingered in her eyes. At breakfast he said, "Let me take you away some place until this has all blown over."

She looked at him. She said lifelessly, "You're so good, so kind, but I can't let you do it. I must go away and not come back any more. I have injured you enough. You must get a divorce and marry some girl who will make the right sort of wife for you. You're free now. Your mother no longer owns you. Do what you like. I shall agree to whatever you say."

His laugh held no mirth. "That's foolish talk. You need me just now. Let me be a help. I want to be."

"But you don't need me!" She began to weep, self pity rushing over her like a tide. "No one does."

When the doctor, summoned by Clive, arrived she had collapsed. "Just nerves," the genial man announced. He thought he was used to the vagaries of the idle society woman. "She'd be right as rain if she had a child or two to worry about," he told Clive, smiling as he buttoned his gloves. He wondered why the younger man flushed so darkly.

"Nothing wrong in that quarter, is there?" he asked with the medical man's casual bluntness. "Nothing that I know of," Clive muttered.

"Well, that's often a great remedy," the physician chuckled. "I'll drop in to-morrow to see how she is."

Cass came and had a talk with her and the afternoon Liane arose and dressed. She was strangely quiet. She had a good child's docility and when Clive spoke to her she answered with humility and candor. She tried not to think of Van's funeral. Other people would come to pay him respect but she would not be there. It was part of the punishment he had meted out.

In a week she seemed almost normal again. She was always pale now and in some indefinable way she had taken on an air of maturity. Clive was deeply concerned about her. He acquired the habit of leaving the office early and coaxing her to ride in the park. He wanted to teach her to drive but she said apathetically, "Not now. Later, perhaps." Her passivity was more moving than tears would have been.

On a day two weeks after Van's death Clive opened the door of their suite with his latch key. He expected to find Liane stretched out on the couch with a book. He came in softly. There was no sign of her in the sitting-room, so he went to the door of her boudoir and knocked gently. There was no answer. He turned the knob and went in.

It was all right, he assured himself. She must have decided to go for a walk. She would be back directly. Through the door of the closet he could see her frocks hanging, fragile stuffs fragrant with the scent she always used. Then he noticed that her sable cat hung with the other things. Curious she had not worn that. It was a cold day.

Troubled, scarcely knowing why, Clive went to his own room. On the bureau lay a square cream colored envelope. He read: "Clive, dear, you've been wonderful to me, far better than I deserved, but I can't go on like this. I feel a hypocrite in the eyes of the world. Our marriage was a mistake from the start. You can't make a marriage without love. We both know that. Don't try to find me. I've got to work out my own salvation. Only forgive me. I feel I have injured you past forgiveness but I ask it, anyway."

He turned, frantic, back to her room. She had left everything—her rings, her jewels, every trinket he had given her. He held the pearls to his lips for a moment. Almost he could imagine they were still warm with the warmth of her throat.

His laugh held no mirth. "That's foolish talk. You need me just now. Let me be a help. I want to be."

"But you don't need me!" She began to weep, self pity rushing over her like a tide. "No one does."

He turned, frantic, back to her room. She had left everything—her rings, her jewels, every trinket he had given her. He held the pearls to his lips for a moment. Almost he could imagine they were still warm with the warmth of her throat.

The girl walked for hours, shivering in the wind. She wore the Oxford suit which remained from her wardrobe of the winter before. It had been good, even fashionable, once. It had belonged to Elsie. Now it was a trifle outmoded, shabby.

She wore a pair of low-heeled shoes dating from the old days in the apartment. Her underthings had been part of her trousseau. Everything else she left behind. Her hat had been paid for with Clive's money but she realized she would cause comment on the street if she were bare headed and she had no choice. She departed empty handed as she had come. Pride stood her in good stead. She would ask nothing from the man she had treated so badly.

Even her cheque books had been left in the little secretary in her boudoir. She had drawn $50 the day before to tide her over until she found work. This she resolved to pay back from whatever money she might earn.

She went by subway to Pennsylvania Station and from there took a train to a small city in Jersey. She bought a cheap bag, night things and a tooth brush. On one of the clean, quiet side streets she found a room. She had mailed a letter to her mother from New York.

"Don't worry," she had told Cass. "I shall be all right. I needed to get my bearings. I'll let you hear from me time to time how I am getting on."

She slept uneasily that night in the strange, narrow bed. Gone were the downy comforts, the linen sheets, the bizarre tiled bath where hot water rushed from gilded spigots. Gone the scented salts, the big alabaster bowl with the enormous powder puff.

The first morning of her awakening was a dreary one. It had rained in the night and the patch of sky she could see from her window showed grey. Liane washed, shivering in the skimpy bathroom with oilcloth on the floor. She dressed in her comfortable room and fared forth to eat a solitary breakfast in a tiled lunch room. She counted her resources and vined to find them sadly dwindled. How often she had wondered what it might be like to be without friends in a strange city! Now at last she knew.

She went from place to place seeking work. At noon, faint with hunger and stumbling with fatigue, she wandered into a department manager's office in a shabby big store. To her amazement she was given work. She was to be a saleswoman in the stocking department at $18 a week. Briefly she figured on the back of an envelope as she gulped a scalding cup of coffee. She had a net of $18. Twelve dollars left for food and clothing. Not much, but she would make it do. There was nothing else for her. She was lucky, she assured herself, to make a start.

INVITATION TO MACDONALD TO BE CANDIDATE

Canadian Press

Seaham Harbor, Eng., Oct. 5.—The Merton Miners' lodge and Merton branch of the Labor Party, both of which are affiliated with the Seaham division of the party which repudiated Premier MacDonald last week, yesterday decided to nominate the Prime Minister as Labor candidate for the Commons in the Seaham division.

The Merton organizations announced they would ask the divisional executive for permission to call a special meeting of delegates to reconsider its whole position regarding the Prime Minister because of the narrowness of the decision at the recent Wheatley Hill conference, when a resolution calling on him to resign was carried by forty to thirty-nine votes.

Thomas Luke, secretary of the Merton branch of the Labor Party, said he had asked Mr. MacDonald Friday if they were free to nominate him and the Prime Minister had answered "Yes."

The Prime Minister now represents the Seaham division in the Commons. A statement awaited.

London, Oct. 5.—It was not known here to-day how Premier MacDonald would react to the decision of the Merton Miners' lodge and Merton branch of the Labor Party to run him as their candidate for the Commons.

The Prime Minister returned to 10 Downing Street yesterday evening from Chequers and immediately received Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal, in conference.

Since his appearance Friday evening at Seaham Harbor, it had been rumored in London Mr. MacDonald would stand for re-election as an Independent Labor candidate in his own constituency. The London Daily Express and other papers intimated the decision of the Seaham Labor Party executive to continue seeking another candidate had been dictated by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, who replaced Mr. MacDonald as head of the Labor Party after the formation of the National Government.

"I know of no quicker way to revive our Provincial prosperity than to insist always on the article produced in B.C. Every dollar that leaves the Province for imported merchandise is one dollar less in the pockets of our own citizens."

CURTAILMENT OF COPPER OUTPUT MAY SOON COME

Producers to Meet and Endeavor to Reach Agreement on Overproduction

Canadian Press

New York, Oct. 5.—Indications that discussions for further curtailment in copper output will be in progress before the end of the month were seen in reports that all of the important copper producers of the world will send representatives to New York.

The trade interpreted the reported coming to New York of representatives of Rio Tinto, Katanga and Northern Rhodesian producers as indicating finally a real willingness to co-operate in finding a lasting solution of the problem of over-production that has harassed the industry for the last two years.

Continuance of over-production is estimated in trade circles already to have cost the industry between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 on the assumption that the price of copper could have been stopped in its drop either between 11 and 12 cents a pound, or between 12 and 13 cents.

TALK OF TARIFF

It was said that solution of the problem of over-production will be either voluntary curtailment of output, with a complete shutdown of most of the copper mines of the world for several months, to be followed by resumption at a rate low enough to permit fairly rapid reduction of stocks, or else there will be a determined drive by United States producers for a copper tariff.

Domestic leaders in the industry were said to be confident they could obtain support of most of the large consumers of the metal in a plea for a high protective tariff. They believe fabricators would prefer to pay more for copper if it price stability were assured, rather than take chances on obtaining metal for less in a market fluctuating uncertainly.

It was reported that meetings already have been held as to the best way to hasten tariff action, and charts and statistics are being prepared for presentation to the United States tariff commission at its hearing late this month.

The tariff hearings are scheduled to open soon after the producers' conference starts.

Duncan

The tea committee was composed of Mrs. T. Pitt, Mrs. J. Saunders and Mrs. George Jarvis.

The hard times dance held at the C.A.A.C. Hall, Guelph Station, Friday evening was well attended, and proved most enjoyable. Sailors from H.M.C.S. Skeena and Vancouver were present. Enroll's four-piece orchestra supplied excellent music.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—Rev. Charles Rene Robelle, a well-known member of the Roman Catholic clergy in Canada and seventeenth superior of the religious order known as the Genesmen of Saint Sulpice, died in a hospital here yesterday, aged seventy years.

CHEAPER COAL

COAL is one of the great natural resources of British Columbia, and a major issue in the Vancouver-Victoria money market.

When the miners are working full capacity, over 6,000 families in this territory enjoy normal prosperity. (One person in every thirteen depends on coal for a living). However you look at it, it is "good business" to heat with Island Coal rather than with imported fuels of any kind.

There are more B.T.U.'s* per dollar in "DOUGLAS" . . . or "NANAIMO-WELLINGTON" . . . or "COMOX" . . . than you will ever get from any imported fuel . . . and your dollar stays in British Columbia and benefits the community in which you live.

Ask your dealer to prove this.

"Nanaimo-Douglas"	$ 9.90 per ton
"Nanaimo-Wellington" or "Comox"	$10.75 per ton
Washed Nut "Nanaimo-Wellington" or "Comox"	$ 9.75 per ton

* B.T.U. means "British Thermal Unit"—the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water 1 degree Fahrenheit.

In Agony from Sheer Weakness

Mrs. Spurgeon Dawson firmly believes she would not be here today if she had not taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic)

"When my children were small," writes Mrs. Spurgeon Dawson, Wolverton, Ont., "I was so weak and run down I could not walk across the floor without fainting. Even the slightest exertion was too much. Days were spent in agony from sheer weakness, and nights were made fearful through sleepless hours."

"It seemed as if nothing whatever would help me. . . . Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended, and after taking twelve boxes I found strength returning and my stomach able to handle food again. I had not known what a meal was for months."

What would you give to be able to cast aside your weakness and substitute vigorous physical strength? That is exactly what many men and women have been enabled to do by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic).

The iron and other elements in the tonic pills increase the amount of haemoglobin or oxygen-carrying agent in the blood. The increased supply of oxygen kindles life in all your tissues just as a draft of fresh kindles a fire. The result is better appetite, a feeling well-being, restful sleep, a ability to do your work happily.

Get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Take them faithfully. Do look for immediate results. Sometimes the beneficial results come almost at once—but not always. Give this tonic a trial and you will be rewarded—just other Canadian men and women have been rewarded. 50 cents a package.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1931

This is rather an unimportant day in planetary direction, according to astronomy, a time in which to abstain from all sorts of risks.

In the early morning there is a sign most favorable to astronomers, and foretells a great increase in all forms of publication in 1932.

This should be an auspicious way under which to settle one's financial affairs. It is supposed to be especially lucky for those who pay their debts.

Agriculturists may suffer while this way continues, but the seers prophesy that great acreages will be specially lucky for those who cultivate that has big business as a pattern.

Those who read the stars foretell strange contradictions in mercantile methods. While large shops and chain stores flourish, the neighborhood merchant is to gain in popularity.

As cities become more and more congested merchants will go to their customers instead of visitors visiting the shops. Some new connection between the post-office and wireless is indicated, according to astrologers.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the year of a year of good luck. A trip to an office building is foretold as most fortunate. Children born on this day probably will be attractive in personality, even in disposition and possession.

Many kind, famous Swedish singer, was born on this day, 1820. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Harriet Homer, 1830, noted sculptor.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 5.—Fire, which originated in an adjoining hangar, yesterday evening swept the Van Cleave Airplane works at Love Field. Sixteen planes were destroyed. Firemen estimated the losses at $35,000.

Says: Is Laughter Instead of Tears

THE THING that parents need most is a sense of humor and, unfortunately, most of them have not even a rudimentary funnybone in their whole anatomy. I grant you that rearing children is no merry jest. It is a serious and a heart-searching business, especially so in these days when the youngsters are given to taking every risky urdle in their stride and knocking down all of the old bars of conventional behavior. Nevertheless, most fathers and mothers make a mistake regarding their adolescent boys and girls too tragically and they shed many tears over things that they had better laugh off.

This attitude is not good for the parents and it is not good for the children. Indeed, you might almost say that the more conscientious parents are in doing their duty, the less they do it. For the fathers and mothers who consider their children an awful responsibility are bound to find them an awful burden, and this makes an awful barrier, that neither can surmount, between them and the children.

It is a matter of common observation that parents are much more indulgent to their younger children than they were to their older ones. The thing at Junior would never have been permitted to do Benjamin does with impunity. Fifteen-year-old Sadie says things to mother and discusses topics with her that Maria, who is thirty and married, would never dream of voicing to her.

Also, there is a much greater comradeship between the younger children and their parents than is ever established between the older children and their father and mother.

The reason for this is that the parents have relaxed. They worked out all their theories of child-rearing on their first-born and by the time the younger ones came along they have discovered that most of their ideas about how to rear infant phenomena were all bunk.

They have quit trying to read something occult into a baby's cry and begun looking for a pin or the peppermint bottle. They have found out that everything an infant does is not deeply significant, and that you can give a child a bite of candy without it curling up and dying at your feet, and rock it to sleep occasionally without adding its brain. Also that you can kiss it without cursing it with that mother fixation that will wreck its whole life.

Parents never really enjoy their children until after they cease to regard them as agonizing problems that they have to work out and realize that out of the difficulties that they have lain awake nights trying to solve it automatically disappear if they will give nature a chance to take its ease. Nor do children ever get close to their parents until mother and father quit weeping over them and learn to laugh with them.

It is queer that men and women who are not so long from their own youth and who must remember how silly and inconsequent they were, how eager and how ardent and what false values they put on things, fail to understand that their own children have to go through this same period of youthful folly and that it is something to smile over instead of tearing your hair about.

But they do not. They expect their hobbledy boys and girls to have the wisdom, the settled purpose in life, the thoughts and feelings and desires that they have and when they find they have not and that their youngsters are just kids, mad with the joy of living and brimming over with curiosity but the show that is just unfolding before them, they beat upon their heads and utter doleful lamentations about what the younger generation is coming to.

Every day some mother tells me that she has just worn herself to skin and bone trying to teach her girls to be orderly and to get them to do household chores, and that she cannot do it, and that they scatter their things all over the place.

"Good gracious," I say to her, "why vex yourself? All girls are like that, not you remember when you used to hang your party dresses up on the door and how you hated to make beds and wash dishes and your mother upbraided that you would run some man crazy if you married him? And you are the model housekeeper of the community. Let Mamie alone, she will learn how to be orderly when she has her own house."

Or some mother wails out that her girls are boy crazy. "Well, were not we all when we were that age?" I ask her. "Do not you remember when you thought you would die if Tommy Jones did not walk home with you from school or Jimmy Smith did not ask you to dance at a party?"

"And do not you remember when you thought you would perish with grief if you did not have as big a bow of hair-ribbon as every other girl? how you thought you had just as well give up and die and not try to any longer in a cruel world if you did not get to go on a picnic that you your heart on?"

Yet we all grew up into respectable women and acquired a philosophy of life, and learned how to write the proper price tags on things.

And every day you hear men calling their young sons fools because their wear giddy sports clothes and step out of nights and are more interested in a football score than in the stock market and drive their cars past the limit. What a pity that fathers cannot remember that they did all these things when they were boys and yet they have settled down into the pillars of the community.

That is why I say parents need a sense of humor so that they can laugh at these follies of youth instead of breaking their hearts over them, or the only thing that all their boys and girls is youth, and that is something that time cures. Alas, and alack. DOROTHY DIX

Putting Out Home Fires

Keep the home fires burning! is old piece of advice, but sometimes much better to put out the home fire.

You find a little fire in your home—in the wrong place—it may be better to try to put it out than to call the fire department. Of course, you use your own judgment. If the fire is beyond control, take the baby safety, turn in an alarm, and then you can do so without danger, rescue your jewels.

Man using fire extinguisher

Members of my family still enjoy a mishap which took place in I was thirteen years old. They think I was found in the midst of a burning house "thinking of what best to do"; but I have my side of the story, too.

So happened that I was awake—long after the rest of the family had retired. An oil lamp was on a bedside my rocker. At length I decided to go to bed. I stood up and old chair rocked in an unlucky manner—it struck the table and made the metal lamp fall to the floor. The chimney was shattered, but the wick kept on burning. Quickly I picked up the lamp, but just then something in the nature of an explosion took place. At least there was a strong and rather loud "puff." Whoever had filled the lamp the last time had left off the stopper. Flame caught on to the oil inside. When that little explosion took place, I dropped the lamp. Oil ran over the floor, burning oil. I called "Fire!" My impulse was to pick up the lamp again and carry it to the bathtub, but I was held back by the thought that I might thereby spread the burning oil along the hallway. At that point, my father rushed to the rescue, pulled the mattress from my bed, and smothered the flames. That was quick work on his part!

To smother the flames means that we take away the supply of oxygen without oxygen, a fire cannot continue to burn. Extinguishers which send forth "fire foam" have proved useful in putting out home fires. The foam is composed of thousands of tiny bubbles. The bubbles cling to any solid surface they reach, even to a ceiling. They smother the flames. It is a good idea to have a fire extinguisher in your home, whether you live in city or country. No matter how speedy firemen may be, they may not save you if a fire gains great headway. (Place in "Safety" section of your scrapbook.)

ing Story of a Poor Girl's
Pose As a Wealthy Woman

Nancy Carroll, that titian haired favorite of thousands of screen lovers, is playing the leading part in "Personal Maid," which opened its Victoria showing this afternoon at the Capitol Theatre. It will play until Wednesday evening.

"Personal Maid" is the Cinderella story made real, with Nancy sparkling in and out on her high heels. It is romance, and good fun, but underneath it all is real drama, lightly and amusingly told, of the emotion-torn, love-muddled lives of America's millionaires.

Nancy makes herself so useful as personal maid to the wealthy Mrs. Gary that she is commissioned to coax the wayward son of the house back to the "straight" and narrow.

She falls in love with the boy, and at the same time, attracts the attention of a self-made business friend of the family. Convinced that "clothes make the lady," Nancy steals a holiday and poses as a wealthy heiress. Her ruse is discovered, and she goes back to the servants' hall, only to be lifted out of it by a real romance.

"Personal Maid" is exciting, thrilling drama all the way through. Its action and dialogue, directed by Monta Bell, who made "Young Man of Manhattan," is smart and rich and fresh.

Blanca Saroya and Dimitri Onofrei Fine in Scenes From Famous Grand Operas

A rare musical and educational treat, attended by too few of Victoria's music lovers, was given Saturday evening in the Shrine Auditorium by Blanca Saroya and Dimitri Onofrei, soprano and tenor respectively of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company.

Three of the most famous grand operas composed the programme, and they were received with enthusiasm. The love scene of Gounod's "Faust," laid in Marguerite's garden, was the first number, with Miss Saroya a dainty Marguerite and Onofrei a pleasing Faust. All the beauty and magnificence of both voices were heard in this as the two principals of the opera met. Onofrei's robust tenor blended beautifully with his partner's soprano.

The finale was a glorious soprano. The finale was a glorious soprano. The finale was a glorious soprano.

The scene in the ante-room of the chapel of Saint Sulpice was the one given from Massenet's opera "Manon," and it was in this that Miss Saroya seemed finest.

LOVELY COSTUMES
All three scenes were presented against a black background, the colorful costumes of the artists making a pretty effect. The costumes were rich, Miss Saroya looking particularly lovely in "Manon" in a beautiful French-period gown of cream silk with which she wore a tiny hat and a large red plume over her white hair.

Mr. Ripley, the creator of "Believe It or Not," and all the other syndicated gentlemen who now play upon that same theme in the various periodicals throughout the land would find a wealth of material for their daily stunts if they went to Bora Bora, in the South Pacific, where F. W. Murnau filmed his romantic drama of native Polynesian life and love now being shown at the Coliseum Theatre.

Upon his return from his fourteen-month film-making expedition, Murnau told Hollywood reporters many amazing tales of the South Pacific. Among them was the one about the tree on which bread grows.

The breadfruit tree flourishes on the island of Bora Bora, said the famous Murnau, "and when you bake the large round fruit of this tree it resembles the staff of life as we know it in the shape of the baker's loaf or the parkhouse roll."

"It is a delightful substitute," he declared, "and then too, it never becomes stale. When you want a fresh loaf you just shake a breadfruit tree and one comes tumbling down."

These two noted actors have, besides England, travelled through New Zealand, South Africa and Australia, where they had unqualified success both with the public and the press.

Each of these scenes to be presented this evening is a gem in itself. The characters are portrayed in the gorgeous costumes of the period with a background that detracts nothing from the vivid magnificence of the drama.

Songs and lyrics from the plays are introduced, and the atmosphere and emotional backgrounds are assisted by appropriate music.

In order to vary the programme, the two principal artists will be assisted by a charming dancer and an accomplished pianist, who will entertain between the different scenes. A wholly delightful evening can be secured to all those who will welcome this opportunity of seeing some of the finest scenes from Shakespeare enacted by two most talented and versatile artists.
